

Soroptimists, YWCA Protest Lincoln Square Plot Removal

Copies of two more protests against the removal of the center plot in Lincoln Square were released for publication today. The protests are from the YWCA and the Soroptimist club. They had been addressed to Councilman John D. Teeter.

The protests follow:

September 14, 1950

We understand there is a move on foot again to remove the center plot in the Square.

Some time ago we wrote you, protesting against this action. At the meeting of our Board of Directors held Monday night, Sept. 11th, they again took action and instructed me to so notify you, that they do not approve the removal of the center plot. Gettysburg used to be a lovely town but gradually all vestiges of beauty are being removed. We feel that the traffic problem can be solved in other ways and that the removal of the center plot would bring as many disadvantages as advantages. As to the matter of being by-passed by major highways, it is our opinion that people will always come to Gettysburg and it would be to our definite advantage if trucks and large vehicles were by-passed.

We sincerely trust that no action will be taken to remove what for years has been a pleasant picture to those who pass through the center of our town.

Sincerely yours,
Violet E. Hill, Secretary
Y.W.C.A.

Club Protests

September 14, 1950

We understand that once again there is some talk of removing the center plot from the Square.

We have written you before protesting this action. At the business meeting of the Soroptimist Club held Tuesday, September 12, this matter was brought before the club members for discussion, and a motion was made and unanimously passed that we do not approve of the removal of the center plot. As secretary, I was instructed to write you a letter to that effect.

Gettysburg used to be a lovely little town and right now it seems to us that the center plot is the only beauty spot left in Gettysburg. The trees have been cut down around the square, and now you want to remove the center plot.

We feel that the traffic problem can be solved in other ways. At the present time traffic has to slow down in the Square because there are no traffic lights, perhaps this would be an answer to your traffic problem.

As to the matter of being by-passed by major highways, it is our opinion that people will always come to historic Gettysburg and it would be to our definite advantage if trucks and large vehicles were by-passed.

We sincerely trust that no action will be taken to remove what for years has been a pleasant picture to the many tourists who pass through the center of our town.

Sincerely yours,
Violet E. Hill, Secretary
Soroptimist Club

Council Asked To Reconsider Action

The local branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, meeting Friday night with Mrs. Milton Remmel, East Middle street, voted to ask the Gettysburg borough council to reconsider its decision to remove the center plot in Lincoln Square.

To remove the center plot, it was stated at the meeting, would be to remove another beauty spot from the community. The members said they have not been able to determine how the removal of the plot would add in any way to the safety of vehicular or pedestrian traffic about the square.

The WCTU voted a contribution to the Community Chest.

Friday's meeting was held on the subject "Open Door for Membership." Two articles by Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, "What Are Commitments?" and "The Good Example" and a playlet "With a View to Safety" were read at the meeting. The December meeting of the organization will be held with Miss Carrie Musselman, Baltimore street.

PLAN 'LIGHTNING' DRIVE FOR $7,000 TO REACH GOAL

A "lightning" canvass of some 500 potential contributors to the Community Chest will be carried out by a "flying committee" next week, Chest Fund Chairman William G. Weaver announced today.

The drive, to end Friday, is being conducted with the hope that during that period of time the chest may raise the $7,000 it still needs to reach its goal of $22,000.

All of the 500 to be contacted gave donations last year. Their cards have been returned this year without any marking by the solicitors and it is believed that the canvassers were unable to contact them.

Since the list of 500 names includes a large number of business places and persons who gave substantial amounts last year it is believed that the drive can be brought near its goal if the "500" give as they gave last year, plus ten per cent more to cover the increase in the Community Chest goal this year.

Ask Additional Sums

At the same time, in its efforts to reach the goal, the Community Chest made an appeal to all who have contributed and who feel that they can give more. Those who may have contributed the same amount as last year and wish to give ten per cent more in keeping with the increased goal, or those who feel that they can give more than the original amount they pledged or donated, were asked to notify Mrs. Fred Pfeiffer, executive secretary of the Community Chest.

Chairman Weaver noted that the drive provides funds for six important local organizations, the Adams County Free Library, the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, YWCA, Civic Nurse and Recreation Association. All of the organizations have cut their 1951 expenses to the bone, he added, in order to make the appeal as low as possible and still give the services that are expected of the organizations.

Those making up the "flying committee" are being selected over the week-end by the representatives named by the organizations in the chest to aid the chest drive for donations. They will meet Monday evening to obtain their supplies and then begin the canvass of the "500."

TO HEAR DR. ARMS

Dr. Richard A. Arms, member of the faculty at Gettysburg college, will read a play at the weekly dinner meeting of the Gettysburg Lions club Monday evening at 6 o'clock at the Shetter House. Tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock, Lions will fill two buses for a trip to Washington to see the Redskins-Eagles pro football game. They will return Sunday evening.

Events For Saturday Night Party Listed

Dr. Lloyd C. Keefe, Gettysburg superintendent of schools, Cpl. Jay Hershey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hershey, Cashtown, and Clarence D. Deardorff, of the Cashtown Fire company and Dr. J. Walter Coleman, superintendent of the Gettysburg National park, will be among the guests on Saturday Night Party over Radio Station WGET tonight.

Dr. Keefe will outline the increased facilities proposed for the local high school and the advantages of the new junior-senior high school set-up to be established here. Corporal Hershey, who recently completed work at the army's electronics school at Fort Bliss and is now enroute to rejoin his anti-aircraft battalion, will outline some of the new equipment the army has to help shoot enemy planes out of the air. Mr. Deardorff will give details of the history of the Cashtown fire company.

F. D. ROWE IS NAMED HEAD OF LAST MAN CLUB

Frederick D. Rowe, Hagerstown, was elected president of the Last Man club of the Albert J. Lentz American Legion post Friday night at the annual dinner meeting of the organization held at the Lentz post home on Baltimore street.

The new president, succeeds John W. Bream, of Cashtown. Named as vice president, succeeding LeRoy H. Winebrenner, was Harry Piltenturf, Marietta; Carl Menchey, Gettysburg, was elected secretary succeeding William H. Pensly, James Oyler, Gettysburg R. D., was selected as treasurer to succeed Dorsey Robert. Ray Miller, York, was elected chaplain, succeeding Guy F. Hoke.

Forty-seven of the members attended the meeting out of the 61 present members of the organization. Organized November 10, 1939, the group originally had 100 members, and meets each year on the night before Armistice Day. Death has claimed 12 of the members so far.

Judge W. C. Sheely, the principal speaker of the evening urged the nation to "build a strong defense, so strong that no enemy can attack it, and then keep that defense organization."

"After World War I," the jurist noted, "we forgot that power is of importance in our world. We felt that no future threat could disturb us and consequently we forgot that constant vigilance and constant defense is the bulwark of liberty and freedom. We were caught practically defenseless, and only the valiance of our allies prevented us from being destroyed before we could rebuild anew our nation's armed power."

"After World War II we again lapsed into a condition in which our defense became secondary, and we have nearly reaped the whirlwind in Korea as a result. We are building now to where we shall have an armed force equal to all needs. It is a lesson we have twice learned at great cost to ourselves. May we never forget it."

Thirteen colleges of the Gettysburg area of the Lutheran Student association will be represented at a week-end conference November 18 and 19 at Gettysburg college. "Thy Word is Truth" will be the theme for the conference.

Sessions will open next Saturday at 4:30 p.m. at the SOA building on the college campus. At 5:30 a turkey dinner will be served at St. James Lutheran church. On Sunday a communion service will be held at 8 a.m. in the Lutheran Theological seminary chapel after which the group will attend services at Christ Lutheran church to conclude the conference program.

Schools to be represented include: Hood college, Wilson college, Shippenburg State Teachers' college, Millersville State Teachers' college, Indiana State Teacher's college, Elizabethtown college, Western Maryland college, Franklin and Marshall college, Frostburg (Maryland) State Teachers' college, Lebanon Valley college, Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary, and Dickinson college.

WHEAT STORAGE BINS PLANNED

Construction of 20 metal bins to hold approximately 680,000 bushels of wheat near the D. H. Sharrer and Son mill, at New Chester, will be begun by the U. S. Commodity Credit Corporation Thursday, the local PMA office has been notified.

Twenty bins, each with a capacity of 3,300 bushels of grain, built a year ago along the Biglerville road near the Adams Electric power station north of here by the CCC have been filled with wheat, it was learned. Eighteen of the bins are full, with the other two empty to permit rotation of the wheat from bin to bin.

Ten of the bins locally are filled with wheat on which the Commodity Credit Corporation has loans, the reminder are leased to P. R. Markley, Philadelphia wheat broker, by the Philadelphia Credit Corporation. While some of the wheat stored in the bins locally is from Adams county, large quantities stored there are from other sections. Much was sent here from Philadelphia.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS

Daughters were born at the Warner hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Burnell Deardorff, New Oxford, and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Coley, Aspers R. 1, this morning and to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sites, 55 East Stevens street, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Nary, Aspers R. 1, Friday. A son was born this morning at the hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bolland, Gettysburg R. 2.

Marshall Says Korean Dead Will Not Be Forgotten By U.S.

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Marshall pledged on this Armistice Day that the more than 4,655 Americans who have died in Korea will not be forgotten.

In an address prepared for delivery at ceremonies beside the grave of Gen. John J. Pershing in Arlington National Cemetery, General Marshall said:

"Each of these casualties represents a precious life, precious to the individual and precious to his family and friends. We can do nothing to restore life to these men, but we can keep faith with them, remembering and honoring their sacrifices and doing our very best to support the ideals they courageously represented."

"They will not be forgotten. Their government will see that their last

TAKE ORDERS AT MARKET FOR THANKSGIVING

With Thanksgiving less than two weeks away, orders were being taken on the Farmers' market this morning for chickens, ducks and turkeys, and it was announced that a special holiday market would be held on Wednesday, November 22, the day before Thanksgiving.

Farmers said that prices for turkeys would run from 60 to 75 cents a pound, dressed, with 80 to 85 cents a pound being asked for toms and 75 cents a pound for hens. Chickens are selling for 55 cents a pound for roasters and 60 cents a pound for fryers. Ducks are 55 cents a pound on the market.

Pork prices remained unchanged today, with loins $1 a pound; back-bone, 50 cents a pound; ribs, 50 cents a pound; neck roast, 55 cents a pound; shoulder roast, 65 cents a pound; ham roast, 75 cents a pound; sausage, 60 cents a pound; scrapple, 25 cents a pound; pudding, 50 cents a pound; fresh side meat, 55 cents a pound; lard, 22 cents a pound and liver 60 cents a pound.

Egg Prices Unchanged

Apples were plentiful at 15 and 20 cents a quart box and $1 to $1.25 a half bushel. Varieties included 'Stayman' Winesap, Grimes Golden, Yellow Delicious, Red Delicious, Winter Rambo, King, Paradise Sweets, York Imperial, Jonathan and Smokehouse.

Endive was 10 cents a stalk; beets, 10 cents a bunch; onions, 15 cents a box; pumpkins and squash, five to 20 cents each; turnips, 10 and 15 cents a box; sweet potatoes, 20 and 25 cents a quart box; potatoes, $1 a half bushel.

Egg prices were unchanged, with large whites and browns selling for 67 cents a dozen. Grapes were 15 cents a box and pears 20 cents a box and $1.25 a bushel.

Whipped cream was 35 cents a pint; potato salad, 20 cents a pint; cottage cheese, 20 cents a pint; cup cheese, 15 cents; bread, 20 cents a loaf; rolls, 20 cents a dozen; cookies, 25 cents a dozen; cakes, $1 and pies, 40 and 50 cents.

Traffic Count Made By State

Employees of the state highway department made a traffic count in Lincoln Square Friday. They checked the traffic by means of hand counters, noting both through traffic and right and left turns.

Borough officials and local state highway officials said they had no knowledge of the count, except that they learned it was being made.

Asks Correction Of Error In Visitation Figures Here

Local residents are looking forward to a correction in The Philadelphia Inquirer's column "Washington Background," edited by John C. O'Brien. On Thursday, the column reported:

"More than 22,780,000 people, a new record, visited national parks, monuments and other areas administered by the Interior department National Park Service during the travel year that ended last September."

"Gettysburg, one of a number of national military parks and cemeteries, also proved popular. In 1950 a total of 44,700 visitors passed its gates, an increase of about 5,000 over 1949."

Cites Correct Figures

Dr. J. Walter Coleman, superintendent of the Gettysburg National park, immediately wrote Mr. O'Brien, informing him that he had his travel figures somewhat wrong and referred him to an editorial which appeared in the same newspaper on Tuesday, which had the correct figures for tourist visitation.

The Inquirer on Tuesday, under the heading, "This State's National Parks," printed the following editorial:

"It should be cause for some concern that the National Park Service report reveals that the National Parks in Pennsylvania have not shown so great an increase in attendance generally as those in the rest of the system which have already definitely established a record in 1950 for the high number of visitors."

PMA FIELDMEN MEET MONDAY ON '51 PLANS

Eighteen "fieldmen" of the county Production and Marketing committee will meet Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the PMA office on North Washington street for instructions in the 1951 program of the Production and Marketing Administration.

Martin T. Walter, Biglerville R. 1, chairman of the county committee, said today that the local PMA has been authorized so far to disburse $140,400 in "cash practices" in the county during the coming year.

Details of the types of "cash practices" authorized by the PMA will be outlined at Monday's meeting by Harry Peters, Chambersburg, field representative for the PMA in this area.

To Improve Farms

The "cash practices" program of the PMA, Walter noted, is designed to aid farmers in carrying out practices that will improve their farms. In carrying out the practices the farmer will pay a majority of the cost, but the PMA is able to offer certain amounts which help defray the cost and as a result the farmer is able to carry out a number of practices for the improvement of his land that he could not otherwise promote, Walter said.

About 1,600 county farmers annually take advantage of the PMA program which includes such things as placing lime on the soil to restore and maintain soil productivity, placing of phosphate and potash materials, seeding rye grass as a winter cover crop, clearing land for permanent pasture, constructing pasture fences, establishing contour strip cropping, constructing divers-

BOOK WEEK TO BE OBSERVED BY CO. LIBRARY

Special displays in the Adams county free library and special visits by school children to the library will feature the local celebration of National Book Week starting Sunday, Mrs. William Snyder, librarian of the county library, announced today.

During the week, book marks prepared by the Children's Book Council will be presented to all youngsters visiting the library. Special invitations have been sent to teachers served by the bookmobile to bring the students in their schools to the library during the week as a special Book Week visit. During those visits the librarians plan to read stories to the youngsters in addition to showing them the display of 3,500 juvenile books on display.

32nd Celebration

This year marks the 32nd annual celebration of National Children's book week, Mrs. Snyder noted. She added that "perhaps the best

To Speak Sunday In Harrisburg Area

Two Gettysburg men will speak at Harrisburg area church services this week-end.

Dr. Harry F. Baughman, professor of theology at the local Lutheran theological seminary will speak at services Sunday morning at St. Paul's Lutheran church, New Cumberland commemorating the 40th anniversary of that church.

Fual Sucho, an Arab Christian who is a student at the local seminary, will be the speaker at Trinity Lutheran church, Harrisburg, at a thank offering service Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Rotary Club Will Mark 30th Year

Eugene Bertin, Muncy, Pa., prominent Rotarian, will be the speaker Monday evening at a program to be held by the local Rotary club at Trinity Evangelical-Reformed church marking the 30th anniversary of the establishment of the Gettysburg Rotary club.

Littlestown Rotarians are scheduled to attend the local dinner meeting in a body and a large delegation is expected from the Hanover Rotary club. The Littlestown club was formed by the Gettysburg club and the Hanover group in turn was established through the efforts of members of the Littlestown club.

Engagement

Henry-Fridinger

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fridinger, Gettysburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Lee, to George C. Henry, son of Mrs. Margaret Henry, Dillsburg.

The wedding will take place in the near future.

Mark Anniversary At AME Zion Service

The second in the series of special services commemorating the 75th anniversary of St. Paul's AME Zion church will be held Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the church on South Washington street with the Rev. Clyde R. Brown, pastor of the local Presbyterian church, as the speaker. Music will be provided by a Presbyterian choir.

Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service the Rev. Dr. Edwin Kenny, district superintendent, will preach the sermon and then will conduct the second quarterly conference. From 6:15 to 7:15 o'clock Sunday evening a motion picture on Boy Scouting, entitled "Trail to Citizenship" will be shown at the church.

The Rev. J. O. Fountain, pastor of the church is recuperating from a recent operation. Mrs. Fountain, has suffered a sprained ankle. Members of the congregation are aiding the Rev. and Mrs. Fountain in keeping house at the parsonage.

18 WOMEN ARE AWARDED R.C. CERTIFICATES

Certificates have been awarded to 18 county women who completed the two courses in home nursing recently held by the Adams county Red Cross, Mrs. Francis C. Mason, home nursing chairman, announced today.

The certificates, and Mrs. Mason's congratulations, went to the following from the class conducted by Miss Harriet Harbaugh: Mrs. G. C. Grabbill, Gettysburg R. 4; Mrs. Marie Hankey, Gettysburg R. 2; Mrs. Doris Hann, 605 Baltimore street; Mrs. Dayton Mason, Gettysburg R. 4; Mrs. Gertrude Paris, 72 Steinwehr avenue; Mrs. Ruth Anna Polley, 34 East Stevens street; Mrs. Ruth Schmitz, 20 Reynolds avenue; Mrs. Janet Scott, 430 Carlisle street; Mrs. Zora Stambaugh, 418 Carlisle street; and Mrs. William J. Yingling, 65 Steinwehr avenue, and the following who attended the class conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth Ridler: Mrs. Mary Bringham, Hanover R. 2; Mrs. Richard Cline, 644 Highland avenue; Mrs. Marian Gull, Arenasville; Mrs. Doris Gallion, 41 Hanover street; Mrs. Frances Greiman, 312 Baltimore street; Mrs. Elizabeth Heikkinen, 314 Springs avenue; Mrs. Mildred McVicker, 243 North Washington street, and Miss Rose Stock, 38 North Washington street.

Mrs. Mason also expressed the thanks of the Red Cross chapter to Miss Harbaugh and Mrs. Ridler, who instructed the classes and to the Warner hospital which donated the use of the board room for the classes. Mrs. Barton Poth and Mrs. Robert Kenworthy, of the home nursing committee, assisted in supplying and arranging the equipment for the courses.

Mrs. Wilda McBeth and Mrs. Brenda Walker assisted as instructors.

MISS SEASE AND J. D. BENNER WED

Miss Kathleen Mae Sease, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sease, Gettysburg R. 3, became the bride of John David Benner, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Benner, Fairfield, Friday evening at 7 o'clock in St. John's Lutheran church, Baltimore. The double ring ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. Frank Keller.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a navy blue taffeta dress with a corsage of red roses centered with a gardenia. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Williams, sister and brother-in-law of the groom. Mrs. Williams' dress was of red crepe and she wore a white corsage. Both mothers wore tall suits with red rosebud corsages.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Williams immediately following the ceremony. The immediate families attended.

Mrs. Benner graduated from Gettysburg high school in 1948 and Mr. Benner graduated from Perkiomen Prep school in 1949. They will reside at their respective homes.

Allies Drive Three Miles As Lull Breaks In Korean War

Seoul, Nov. 1, (AP)—Allied ground forces thrust northward today in a renewed offensive against Korean and Chinese Communists. Initial gains of three miles were made in the northwest.

The new drive breaks a five-day lull in the ground fighting. A puzzling withdrawal by the Chinese Communists and the North Koreans caused the lull. The Reds withdrew abruptly to wooded mountain positions after inflicting heavy casualties in a sudden counterattack last week. Many Allied units were trapped and cut up.

In the wake of ceaseless air blows on the retreating Reds and their supply lines, American and British infantrymen pushed off Saturday in northwest Korea.

U. S. British Drive Ahead

U. S. Marines and other Allied units in the northeast continued their northward drive.

The northwest offensive was launched soon after airmen had reported a linkup of east and west coast Allied forces across the 100-mile waist of the peninsula. The Eighth Army, however, said it had no confirmation of the linkup.

The U. S. 24th Division and British Commonwealth 27th Brigade pushed off from their bridgehead north of the Chongchon river at Anju. They drove three miles to the outskirts of Pakchon, eight miles north of the Allied supply base at Anju.

Pakchon is 60 air miles south of the Manchurian border and 50 miles north of Pyongyang, former Red capital. It is believed a Red stronghold. General MacArthur's spokesman in Tokyo said road blocking trenches eight feet wide had been dug in the area.

U. S. Cavalry Moves On

However, elements of the 24th reached the southern outskirts of Pakchon without major opposition. Patrols earlier were reported northeast of Pakchon.

Farther east, on their right flank, the U. S. First Cavalry Division (mechanized infantry) moved slowly.

2 BIGLER HIGH STUDENTS ARE HURT IN CRASH

Two Biglerville high school students, returning from a football game with Columbia high school, were injured Friday night at 11 o'clock when police said their car went through a red light in York, crashed into another auto and careened into the front of a plumbing shop.

Mary Kasper, 18, of Biglerville R. 1, suffered a bruised left leg. Melvin Gladfelter, 21, of Biglerville, cut his face and forehead. He required four stitches to close the cuts at York hospital. Both were discharged following treatment.

They were riding in a car driven by A. James Dillon, 20, also of Biglerville, York police said. Traveling west on Philadelphia street when they went through the red light, they struck a car operated by Gordon T. Smith, 27, of 1003 East Hay street, York, traveling north on Duke street.

When Dillon's car swerved into the front of the plumbing shop, police said, it struck the rear end of a parked car, owned by Eugene P. Smith, 713 Broadway, Hanover.

A state police patrol car, passing through the city at the time of the accident, took the injured to the hospital.

Damage to Smith's car was estimated at $300. Dillon's damage was set at $600 and the parked car's at $50. About $100 damage was done to the front of the plumbing shop, owned by Frank Brockman, Duke and Philadelphia streets, while sink and pipe fittings inside the front of the shop received damage estimated at $50.

This equipment is owned by H. Elwood Smith and Samuel O. Hoffman, both of York.

Dillon was given a ticket for passing the red light, police said.

Jointure Staffs Dine Together

Members of the teaching staff of the Lower Adams Jointure entertained the staff members of the Conewago Jointure at the New Oxford high school building Thursday evening.

Herbert E. Bryan, a member of the New Oxford faculty, was the speaker and told of his experiences in a leper colony.

Games were played and refreshments served.

Weather Forecast

Partly cloudy and colder tonight, lowest 22-28, Sunday some cloudiness and continued rather cold.

Soroptimists, YWCA Protest Lincoln Square Plot Removal

Copies of two more protests against the removal of the center plot in Lincoln Square were released for publication today. The protests are from the YWCA and the Soroptimist club. They had been addressed to Councilman John D. Teeter.

The protests follow:

September 14, 1950
We understand there is a move on foot again to remove the center plot in the Square.

Some time ago we wrote you, protesting against this action. At the meeting of our Board of Directors held Monday night, Sept. 11th, they again took action and instructed me to so notify you, that they do not approve the removal of the center plot. Gettysburg used to be a lovely town but gradually all vestiges of beauty are being removed. We feel that the traffic problem can be solved in other ways and that the removal of the center plot would bring as many disadvantages as advantages. As to the matter of being by-passed by major highways, it is our opinion that people will always come to Gettysburg and it would be to our definite advantage if trucks and large vehicles were by-passed.

Council Asked To Reconsider Action

The local branch of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, meeting Friday night with Mrs. Milton Rummel, East Middle street, voted to ask the Gettysburg borough council to reconsider its decision to remove the center plot in Lincoln Square.

To remove the center plot, it was stated at the meeting, would be to remove another beauty spot from the community. The members said they have not been able to determine how the removal of the plot would add in any way to the safety of vehicular or pedestrian traffic about the square.

The WCTU voted a contribution to the Community Chest.

Friday's meeting was held on the subject "Open Door for Membership." Two articles by Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, "What Are Commitments?" and "The Good Example" and a playlet "With a View to Safety" were read at the meeting. The December meeting of the organization will be held with Miss Carrie Musselman, Baltimore street.

PLAN 'LIGHTNING' DRIVE FOR $7,000 TO REACH GOAL

A "lightning" canvass of some 500 potential contributors to the Community Chest will be carried out by a "flying committee" next week, Chest Fund Chairman William G. Weaver announced today.

The drive, to end Friday, is being conducted with the hope that during that period of time the chest may raise the $7,000 it still needs to reach its goal of $22,000.

All of the 500 to be contacted gave donations last year. Their cards have been returned this year without any marking by the solicitors and it is believed that the canvassers were unable to contact them.

Since the list of 500 names includes a large number of business places and persons who gave substantial amounts last year it is believed that the drive can be brought near its goal if the "500" give as they gave last year, plus ten per cent more to cover the increase in the Community Chest goal this year.

At the same time, in its efforts to reach the goal, the Community Chest made an appeal to all who have contributed and who feel that they can give more. Those who have contributed the same amount as last year and wish to give ten per cent more in keeping with the increased goal, or those who feel that they can give more than the original amount they pledged or donated, were asked to notify Mrs. Fred Pfeiffer, executive secretary of the Community Chest.

Chairman Weaver noted that the drive provides funds for six important local organizations, the Adams County Free Library, the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, YWCA, Civic Nurse and Recreation Association. All of the organizations have cut their 1951 expenses to the bone, he added, in order to make the appeal as low as possible and still give the services that are expected of the organizations.

Those making up the "flying committee" are being selected over the week-end by the representatives named by the organizations in the chest to aid the chest drive for donations. They will meet Monday evening to obtain their supplies and then begin the canvass of the "500."

TO HEAR DR. ARMS

Dr. Richard A. Arms, member of the faculty at Gettysburg college, will read a play at the weekly dinner meeting of the Gettysburg Lions club Monday evening at 6 o'clock at the Shetter House. Tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock, Lions will fill two buses for a trip to Washington to see the Redskins-Eagles pro football game. They will return Sunday evening.

Events For Saturday Night Party Listed

Dr. Lloyd C. Keefeauver, Gettysburg superintendent of schools, Cpl. Jay Hershey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hershey, Cashtown, and Clarence D. Deardorff, of the Cashtown Fire company and Dr. J. Walter Coleman, superintendent of the Gettysburg National park, will be among the guests on Saturday Night Party over Radio Station WGET tonight.

Dr. Keefeauver will outline the increased facilities proposed for the local high school and the advantages of the new junior-senior high school set-up to be established here. Corporal Hershey, who recently completed work at the army's electronics school at Fort Bliss and is now enroute to rejoin his anti-aircraft battalion, will outline some of the new equipment the army has to help shoot enemy planes out of the air. Mr. Deardorff will give details of the history of the Cashtown fire company.

F. D. ROWE IS NAMED HEAD OF LAST MAN CLUB

Frederick D. Rowe, Hagerstown, was elected president of the Last Man club of the Albert J. Lentz American Legion post Friday night at the annual dinner meeting of the organization held at the Lentz post home on Baltimore street.

The new president succeeds John W. Bream, of Cashtown. Named as treasurer, succeeding LeRoy H. Winebrenner, was Harry Pittenturf, Marietta; Carl Menchey, Gettysburg, was elected secretary succeeding William H. Pensyl. James Oyler, Gettysburg R. D., was selected as treasurer to succeed Dorsey Rebert. Ray Miller, York, was elected chaplain, succeeding Guy F. Hoke.

Forty-seven of the members attended the meeting out of the 61 present members of the organization. Organized November 10, 1939, the group originally had 100 members, and meets each year on the night before Armistice Day. Death has claimed 12 of the members so far.

Judge W. C. Sheely, the principal speaker of the evening urged the nation to "build a strong defense, so strong that no enemy can attack it, and then keep that defense organization."

"After World War I," the jurist noted, "we forgot that power is of importance in our world. We felt that no future threat could disturb us and consequently we forgot that constant vigilance and constant defense is the bulwark of liberty and freedom. We were caught practically defenseless, and only the valiance of our allies prevented us from being destroyed before we could rebuild anew our nation's armed power."

"After World War II we again lapsed into a condition in which our defense became secondary, and we have nearly reaped the whirlwind in Korea as a result. We are building now to where we shall have an armed force equal to all needs. It is a lesson we have twice learned at great cost to ourselves. May we never forget it."

Thirteen colleges of the Gettysburg area of the Lutheran Student association will be represented at a week-end conference November 18 and 19 at Gettysburg college. "Thy Word is Truth" will be the theme for the conference.

Sessions will open next Saturday at 4:30 p.m. at the SCA building on the college campus. At 5:30 a turkey dinner will be served at St. James Lutheran church. On Sunday a communion service will be held at 8 a.m. in the Lutheran Theological seminary chapel after which the Lutheran church to conclude the conference program.

Schools to be represented include: Hood college, Wilson college, Shippensburg State Teachers' college, Millersville State Teachers' college, Indiana State Teachers' college, Elizabethtown college, Western Maryland college, Franklin and Marshall college, Frostburg (Maryland) State Teachers' college, Lebanon Valley college, Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary, and Dickinson college.

WHEAT STORAGE BINS PLANNED

Construction of 20 metal bins to hold approximately 660,000 bushels of wheat near the D. H. Sharrer and Son mill, at New Chester, will be begun by the U. S. Commodity Credit Corporation Thursday, the local PMA office has been notified.

Twenty bins, each with a capacity of 3,300 bushels of grain, built a year ago along the Biglerville road near the Adams Electric power station north of here by the CCC have been filled with wheat, it was learned. Eighteen of the bins are full, with the other two empty to permit rotation of the wheat from bin to bin.

Ten of the bins locally are filled with wheat on which the Commodity Credit Corporation has loans, the reminder are leased to P. R. Markley, Philadelphia wheat broker, by the Commodity Credit Corporation.

While some of the wheat stored in the bins locally is from Adams county, large quantities stored there are from other sections. Much was sent here from Philadelphia.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS

Daughters were born at the Warner hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Burnell Deardorff, New Oxford, and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Copley, Aspers R. 1, this morning and to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sites, 55 East Stevens street, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Nary, Aspers R. 1, Friday. A son was born this morning at the hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bolland, Gettysburg R. 2.

Marshall Says Korean Dead Will Not Be Forgotten By U.S.

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Marshall pledged on this Armistice Day that the more than 4,655 Americans who have died in Korea will not be forgotten.

In an address prepared for delivery at ceremonies beside the grave of Gen. John J. Pershing in Arlington National Cemetery, General Marshall said:

"Each of these casualties represents a precious life, precious to the individual and precious to his family and friends. We can do nothing to restore life to these men, but we can keep faith with them, remembering and honoring their sacrifices and doing our very best to support the ideals they courageously represented."

"They will not be forgotten. Their government will see that their last resting place is kept beautiful and peaceful, and a reminder to all peoples that we believe in the dignity of the individual and stand ready to make any sacrifice in defense of his inalienable rights."

Marshall recalled that he had been closely associated with General Pershing when he commanded the First Army during the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne battles of World War I. After the war he served as Pershing's aide for four years and, on his death, succeeded him as chairman of the Battle Monuments commission.

In that post, Marshall said he is concerned with the final resting places of American war dead in sacred plots of ground all over the world.

"There are 22 such cemeteries overseas," he said, "and in each we have erected, or are in process of erecting, a beautiful chapel containing a permanent graphic record of the achievements of the American forces who fought in these regions."

Eric Coker, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, in a speech at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, urged "total mobilization" of U. S. armed forces to "discourage Communist leaders from touching off total war."

President Truman, away from Washington on a Potomac River cruise, designated Col. Cornelius J. Mara, his assistant military aide, to represent him at the ceremonies.

Mara and a number of other individuals and organizations will lay wreaths at the Soldier's Tomb.

These include Dr. Sue Sun Kim of the Korean embassy, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Blue Star Mother, the Japanese-American Citizens' league and veterans groups.

Frank M. Allemen Dies In Millersburg

Frank M. Allemen, 66, Millersburg, died at his home Friday after a brief illness.

He was a member of the Susquehanna lodge of F and AM, the Millersburg lodge of Modern Woodmen, and the Millersburg Fire company.

In addition to his wife, Mrs. Bertha Allemen, he is survived by two sons, Robert W. of Camp Hill and Harry J. of Cincinnati, Ohio; a daughter, Mrs. Irene Reybuck of Harrisburg; a sister, Mrs. Earl J. Bowman of Gettysburg and three grandchildren.

Funeral services Monday at 2 p.m. in a Millersburg funeral home with the Rev. James W. Emerick, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, officiating. Burial in Oak Hill cemetery.

Baptists To Elect Officers Sunday

On Sunday, a formal organization meeting will be held by a group of Adams county Baptists who will also elect officers. The meeting will be held in the Odd Fellows' hall here at 8 p.m.

Dr. Gustave A. Gabelman, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Baptist convention, preached the sermon here last Sunday, to the group of Baptists. A large crowd attended and many signified their desire to unite in forming a church.

Since June 4, a group of Baptists has been meeting in homes and at the Odd Fellows' hall. Dr. W. K. Morgan, cities director of the Pennsylvania Baptist convention, has been supplying the pulpit, guiding and directing the Baptists here and at Chambersburg, where they also recently organized.

Asks Correction Of Error In Visitation Figures Here

Local residents are looking forward to a correction in The Philadelphia Inquirer's column "Washington Background," edited by John C. O'Brien. On Thursday, the column reported:

"More than 32,780,000 people, a new record, visited national parks, monuments and other areas administered by the Interior department National Park Service during the travel year that ended last September."

"Gettysburg, one of a number of national military parks and cemeteries, also proved popular. In 1950 a total of 44,700 visitors passed its gates, an increase of about 5,000 over 1949."

Cites Correct Figures

Dr. J. Walter Coleman, superintendent of the Gettysburg National park, immediately wrote Mr. O'Brien, informing him that he had his travel figures somewhat wrong and requested him to an editorial which appeared in the same newspaper on Tuesday, which had the correct figures for tourist visitation.

The Inquirer on Tuesday, under the heading, "This State's National Parks," printed the following editorial:

PMA FIELDMEN MEET MONDAY ON '51 PLANS

Eighteen "fieldmen" of the county Production and Marketing committee will meet Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the PMA office on North Washington street for instructions in the 1951 program of the Production and Marketing Administration.

Martin T. Walter, Biglerville R. 1, chairman of the county committee, said today that the local PMA has been authorized so far to disburse $140,400 in "cash practices" in the county during the coming year.

Details of the types of "cash practices" authorized by the PMA will be outlined at Monday's meeting by Harry Peters, Chambersburg, field representative for the PMA in this area.

To Improve Farms

The "cash practices" program of the PMA, Walter noted, is designed to aid farmers in carrying out practices that will improve their farms. In carrying out the practices the farmer will pay a majority of the cost, but the PMA is able to offer certain amounts which help defray the cost and as a result the farmer is able to carry out a number of practices for the improvement of his land that he could not otherwise promote, Walter said.

About 1,600 county farmers annually take advantage of the PMA program which includes such things as placing lime on the soil to restore and maintain soil productivity, placing of phosphate and potash materials, seeding ryegrass as a winter cover crop, clearing land for permanent pasture, constructing pasture fences, establishing contour strip cropping, constructing divers-

BOOK WEEK TO BE OBSERVED BY CO. LIBRARY

Special displays in the Adams county free library and special visits by school children to the library will feature the local celebration of National Book Week starting Sunday, Mrs. William Snyder, librarian of the county library, announced today.

During the week, book marks prepared by the Children's Book Council will be presented to all youngsters visiting the library. Special invitations have been sent to teachers served by the bookmobile to bring the students in their schools to the library during the week as a special Book Week visit. During those visits the librarians plan to read stories to the youngsters in addition to showing them the display of 3,500 juvenile books on display.

32nd Celebration

This year marks the 32nd annual celebration of National Children's book week, Mrs. Snyder noted.

She added that "perhaps the best

To Speak Sunday In Harrisburg Area

Two Gettysburg men will speak at Harrisburg area church services this week-end.

Dr. Harry F. Baughman, professor of theology at the local Lutheran theological seminary will speak at services Sunday morning at St. Paul's Lutheran church, New Cumberland commemorating the 40th anniversary of that church.

Paul Sucho, an Arab Christian who is a student at the local seminary, will be the speaker at Trinity Lutheran church, Harrisburg, at a thank offering service Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Rotary Club Will Mark 30th Year

Eugene Bertin, Muncy, Pa., prominent Rotarian, will be the speaker Monday evening at a program to be held by the local Rotary club at Trinity Evangelical-Reformed church marking the 30th anniversary of the establishment of the Gettysburg Rotary club.

Littlestown Rotarians are scheduled to attend the local dinner meeting in a body and a large delegation is expected from the Hanover Rotary club. The Littlestown club was formed by the Gettysburg club and the Hanover group in turn was established through the efforts of members of the Littlestown club.

Engagement

Henry—Fridinger

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fridinger, Gettysburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Lee, to George C. Henry, son of Mrs. Margaret Henry, Dillsburg.

The wedding will take place in the near future.

Mark Anniversary At AME Zion Service

The second in the series of special services commemorating the 75th anniversary of St. Paul's AME Zion church will be held Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the church on South Washington street with the Rev. Clyde R. Brown, pastor of the local Presbyterian church, as the speaker. Music will be provided by a Presbyterian choir.

Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock service the Rev. Dr. Edwin Kenny, district superintendent, will preach the sermon and then will conduct the second quarterly conference. From 6:15 to 7:15 o'clock Sunday evening a motion picture on Boy Scouting, entitled "Trail to Citizenship" will be shown at the church.

The Rev. J. O. Fountain, pastor of the church is recuperating from a recent operation. Mrs. Fountain, has suffered a sprained ankle. Members of the congregation are aiding the Rev. and Mrs. Fountain in keeping house at the parsonage.

Mrs. Mason also expressed the thanks of the Red Cross chapter to Miss Harbaugh and Mrs. Ridler, who instructed the classes and to the Warner hospital which donated the use of the board room for the classes, Mrs. Barton Poth and Mrs. Robert Kenworthy, of the home nursing committee, assisted in supplying and arranging the equipment for the courses.

Mrs. Wilda McBeth and Mrs. Brenda Walker assisted as instructors.

MISS SEASE AND J. D. BENNER WED

Miss Kathleen Mae Sease, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sease, Gettysburg R. 3, became the bride of John David Benner, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Benner, Fairfield, Friday evening at 7 o'clock in St. John's Lutheran church, Baltimore. The double ring ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. Frank Keller.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a navy blue taffeta dress with a corsage of red roses centered with a gardenia. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Williams, sister and brother-in-law of the groom. Mrs. Williams' dress was of red crepe and she wore a white corsage. Both mothers wore fall suits with red rosebud corsages.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Williams immediately following the ceremony. The immediate families attended.

Mrs. Benner graduated from Gettysburg high school in 1948 and Mr. Benner graduated from Perkiomen Prep school in 1949. They will reside at their respective homes.

Allies Drive Three Miles As Lull Breaks In Korean War

Seoul, Nov. 1, (AP)—Allied ground forces thrust northward today in a renewed offensive against Korean and Chinese Communists. Initial gains of three miles were made in the northwest.

The new drive breaks a five-day lull in the ground fighting. A puzzling withdrawal by the Chinese Communists and the North Koreans caused the lull. The Reds withdrew abruptly to wooded mountain positions after inflicting heavy casualties in a sudden counterattack last week. Many Allied units were trapped and cut up.

In the wake of ceaseless air blows on the retreating Reds and their supply lines, American and British infantrymen pushed off Saturday northwest Korea.

U. S., British Drive Ahead

U. S. Marines and other Allied units in the northeast continued their northward drive.

The northwest offensive was launched soon after airmen had reported a linkup of east and west coast Allied forces across the 100-mile waist of the peninsula. The Eighth Army, however, said it had no confirmation of the linkup.

The U. S. 24th Division and British Commonwealth 27th Brigade pushed off from their bridgehead north of the Chongchon river at Anju. They drove three miles to the outskirts of Pakchon, eight miles north of the Allied supply base at Anju.

Pakchon is 60 air miles south of the Manchurian border and 50 miles north of Pyongyang, former Red capital. It is believed a Red stronghold, General MacArthur's spokesman in Tokyo said road blocking trenches eight feet wide had been dug in the area.

U. S. Cavalry Moves On

However, elements of the 24th reached the southern outskirts of Pakchon without major opposition. Patrols earlier were reported northeast of Pakchon.

2 BIGLER HIGH STUDENTS ARE HURT IN CRASH

Two Biglerville high school students, returning from a football game with Columbia high school, were injured Friday night at 10 o'clock when police said their car went through a red light in York, crashed into another auto and careened into the front of a plumbing shop.

Mary Kasper, 18, of Biglerville R. 1, suffered a bruised left leg. Melvin Gladfelter, 21, of Biglerville, cut his face and forehead. It required four stitches to close the cuts at York hospital. Both were discharged following treatment.

They were riding in a car driven by A. James Dillon, 20, also of Biglerville, York police said. Traveling west on Philadelphia street when they went through the red light, they struck a car operated by Gordon T. Smith, 27, of 1063 East Hay street, York, traveling north on Duke street.

When Dillon's car swerved into the front of the plumbing shop, police said, it struck the rear end of a parked car, owned by Eugene P. Smith, 713 Broadway, Hanover.

A state police patrol car, passing through the city at the time of the accident, took the injured to the hospital.

Damage to Smith's car was estimated at $300. Dillon's damage was set at $600 and the parked car's at $50. About $100 damage was done to the front of the plumbing shop, owned by Frank Brockman, Duke and Philadelphia streets, while sink and pipe fittings inside the front of the shop received damage estimated at $50.

This equipment is owned by H. Elwood Smith and Samuel O. Hoffman, both of York.

Dillon was given a ticket for passing the red light, police said.

Jointure Staffs Dine Together

Members of the teaching staff of the Lower Adams Jointure entertained the staff members of the Coneyago Jointure at the New Oxford high school building Thursday evening.

Herbert E. Bryan, a member of the New Oxford faculty, was the speaker and told of his experiences in a leper colony.

Games were played and refreshments served.

SEA MONSTER IS STRING OF DUMMY MINES

London, Nov. 10 (AP) — Grizzled torpedo and mining experts of a Royal Navy school at Plymouth declared today the controversial monster of Loch Ness is actually 40 strings of dummy mines.

Each monster, they said, consists of a string of dummy mines from World War I. They said 320 mines, joined together by a string, were moored to the bottom of the renowned Scottish lake by the minelayer Welbeck as an experiment in 1918 and the strings have been popping up one at a time ever since.

This debunking paved the tourist-loving innkeepers of Inverness, where the Loch drains into the North Sea.

"Utter nonsense," snorted J. C. Mackay, staff veteran of the Inverness Courier. "There's a living, breathing monster in that lake. In all, more than 1,000 persons have reported sighting it."

Wary of Scottish wrath the Royal Navy experts declined to give their names, but told newsmen:

Each of the dummy mines had four horns to contain its detonators. The horns were made of a material that would crumble when exposed to the air. As the years passed, the strings tore loose one by one from their moorings. When they reached the surface, the horns crumbled and the mines slowly filled with water. Then they rolled over and sank.

"There may be a half dozen strings left on the bottom," one of the experts said. "At a distance, they make a very fine monster. It has been a good laugh for the few of us in the know."

More than 100 professional puppet show companies tour the U. S. every year.

FINE HAS MADE SOME CHOICES IN HIS CABINET

Harrisburg, Nov. 10 (AP) — Speculation ran high in state capitol circles today following governor-elect John S. Fine's announcement that he has decided on some cabinet appointments.

Fine said at his home in Nanticoke last night that he has made up his mind on some cabinet members but is not ready to release the names. Some announcements may be made before the end of next week when he goes to Florida for a vacation, Fine added.

The former Superior court judge said he already had given "considerable thought" to cabinet appointments prior to his 90,000-vote victory over Richardson Dilworth, Democratic candidate, in Tuesday's election.

Speculation Begins

"I expected to be elected," he said, "the responsibilities of the governor of a great state like Pennsylvania, the arsenal of democracy, are so weighty I could not help but have definite ideas beforehand on my administration."

In some quarters, it was believed that Fine would reappoint Secretary of Highways Ray F. Smock, Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst, Adjutant General Frank A. Weber and State Police Commissioner C. M. Wilhelm.

Reported for other roles in the Fine administration, although not necessarily in their present posts were Secretary of Revenue Otto F. Messner, Secretary of the Commonwealth Gene Smith, Secretary of Labor and Industry William Chesnut, Secretary of Welfare William C. Brown and Secretary of Forests and Waters Milo F. Dracemel.

May Oust Strickler

One major change in a high state office appeared in the office when State Sen. M. Harvey Taylor indicated he will take over the duties of Maj. Gen. Daniel B. Strickler as lieutenant-governor.

Whether Strickler is ousted as lieutenant-governor is up to the State Justice Department which must rule on whether he is eligible due to his recent entry into the Army with the federalized 28th Infantry Division. A section of the state constitution intimates that a high state official cannot hold a federal post.

Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti said in New York last night that he will make a ruling on the eligibility question "within a week."

Margiotti asserted he would make the ruling "promptly" upon his return to Harrisburg, which he said will be next Monday.

Strickler Won't Quit

Strickler, reached at Camp Atterbury, Ind., said he had no intention of resigning as lieutenant-governor.

"I was elected for full four-year term," Strickler said, "by the people of Pennsylvania and any ruling the attorney general might make in connection with matters before the State Pardon Board will have no bearing on declaring the office of lieutenant-governor vacant, as far as I'm concerned."

In Pennsylvania, the lieutenant-governor presides over sessions of the pardon board, Strickler said in his opinion the board can function with three members in his absence.

Should Strickler be ruled out as lieutenant-governor, Taylor would assume the new duties by virtue of his post as president pro tempore in the Senate.

Duff May Quit Early

Some question also has been raised in Harrisburg over the possibility that Gov. James H. Duff—now Senator-elect—would resign before the end of his term on January 16 in order to become better acquainted with his new duties in Washington.

One source said yesterday that Duff had no intention of quitting before the expiration of his terms as

Harrisburg, Nov. 10 (AP) — An unofficial tabulation today by the chief clerk of the State House of Representatives showed the Republicans picked up three House seats in Tuesday's general election.

The gain brought them total in the lower chamber to 120 compared with 88 for the Democrats. The Associated Press tabulation yesterday incorrectly listed West P. to play a Democrat as elected from the second district in York county. Instead, Luther L. Bear, a Conewago township Republican, captured the district seat.

ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM HELD IN EMMITSBURG

Armistice Day was observed in Emmitsburg today with a special program sponsored by Post No. 6558, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Francis X. Elder Post No. 121, American Legion and the auxiliaries of these organizations.

A parade formed at the Legion post and marched to the "doughboy" monument on West Main street, led by the colors and a firing squad. A wreath was placed on the monument, erected soon after World War I and a salute was fired by the firing squad.

Church bells were tolled for five minutes shortly before 11 o'clock, the hour of the Armistice which ended the first World War.

The speaker for the occasion was Col. Thomas J. Frailey. Recalling the first Armistice Day, Col. Frailey said:

"The great objective had been reached. The war to end wars was ended. Some four million men, the greatest force ever mobilized up to that time for the defense of this nation and its ideals, halted with rejoicing the signing of the Armistice and returned to their homes to engage in their various peacetime occupations.

"As we review the nation's history today, however, we are compelled to realize that permanent peace had not been achieved. The full measure of devotion does not appear to have yet been paid. Today our men are fighting and giving their lives in Korea in behalf of democratic free nations of the world.

"Today our minds are not at rest or at ease. We seem to be beset with an ominous fear and this is not without basis when we look at the world today. We have a feeling of reverential awe mingled with happiness and gloom. Reverence to the fullest extent for those who have paid the supreme sacrifice. We pause to pay them solemn tribute. We rejoice with a feeling of thanksgiving when we think of the victories we have won and look in retrospect at the glorious history of our country. We are filled with gloom and sadness when we think of the fate of some of the free people of the world.

"Accordingly, we re-dedicate ourselves to the crusade for freedom. We have been America's traditional mission and thus prevent enslavement of the world.

"Sharpe is nationally known and an accepted authority in this field. He has been a member of the National Rifle Association for 30 years, and a writer for its magazine for almost that period. Many of his articles have been published in other sporting publications. The December issue of "The American Rifleman" will have a feature article by Sharpe on revolver velocity. He is the author of two books, "The Rifle in America" and "The Complete Guide to Handloading."

34 Are Routed In York Blaze

York, Pa., Nov. 11 (AP)—Thirty-four persons were routed in freezing temperatures early today in a fire that damaged eight homes.

The three-alarm blaze also saw eight firemen injured, including two who had to be hospitalized.

The row of eight homes, in the south end of the city across from the Eagle Fire company, was damaged to the extent of $30,000. Fire Chief L. Ellis Wagner, in making the estimate, said the cause of the blaze was unknown.

One resident, John E. Hess, 82, said he lost $3,000 in old coins and cash in the blaze.

Around The Town

George P. Black, Baltimore street, former assistant postmaster and for many years a local school director, came up with a record today that topped the 50-year history stretch reported Thursday by Harry L. Cratin, Littlestown, Democratic committee treasurer.

Mr. Black ended 55 years of uninterrupted voting on Tuesday. Mr. Black cast his first vote in 1896 for President McKinley and in addition to casting a ballot at every primary and general election since that time recalls that he voted in several special elections in the 55-year period and in the days of party caucuses never missed the GOP gatherings.

The weather prognosticators are saying there's a long, hard winter ahead and say the reason for that forecast is the unusually heavy crop of acorns this fall. They point out that the recent mild winters have been preceded by light crops of acorns.

DEATHS

Bury Mrs. Kump
Funeral services for Mrs. Peter Kump, 82, Orrtanna R. 1, who died at the Warner hospital Wednesday evening, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Bender funeral home conducted by the Rev. Amos Iyer. Interment in Florio's cemetery.

The pallbearers will be Clyde A. Andrew, Dale Bream, William Kane, William Seibert, Roy Mickle and John W. Bream.

Elizabeth L. Neiderer
Miss Elizabeth Louise Neiderer, 14-year-old daughter of Clinton R. and Ioma M. Neiderer, Hanover R. 4, Brantstown, died Friday morning at 5:15 o'clock at the home of her parents. Miss Neiderer had been in ill health the past four years. She had attended the Annunciation school, McSherrystown. Surviving in addition to her parents, are five sisters, Helen, Anna, Mary, Elaine and Nancy, all at home. Funeral services Monday morning, with short rites at 8:30 a.m. at the J. T. Kernan funeral home, McSherrystown, followed by a high mass of requiem at 9 o'clock in the Church of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, McSherrystown. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick P. McGee will be celebrant. Interment in the parish cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday.

Allies Drive

forward, likewise unopposed. The troops, hardest hit U. S. force in last week's Red counterattack, were moving north of Kuna.

To the northeast, U. S. Marines moved steadily toward the big Changjin power dam. They gained five miles and took the last of four hydro-electric plants which supply power to North Korea and parts of Manchuria.

The marines are in the Tenth Corps, which reportedly linked up with the U. S. Eighth Army at Tokchon, in north-central Korea 60 miles northeast of the former Red capital of Pyongyang.

Ahead of the advancing Allies, both navy and air force planes pounded more than 50 areas. Villages were fired, big towns smashed and two Manchurian border bridges knocked out. Two more were damaged.

SENATOR TAFT NOT CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT

Cincinnati, Nov. 11 (AP)—If the Republican party wants Senator Robert A. Taft as its 1952 Presidential candidate, it will have to draft him.

The Senator led right out in an interview yesterday by saying: "I am certainly not a candidate for the (Presidential) nomination. I am not going to run for President."

Then he carefully appended the remark: "I don't say that I wouldn't take the nomination if it were offered to me but I shall make no campaign to get it."

Passed Over Twice
Twice Taft's name has been proposed at Republican conventions as the GOP candidate for Chief Executive. But in 1940 and again in 1948 he was passed over.

Now by polling a 430,000-vote plurality over State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson to gain re-election to a third Senate term, and in spite of labor's bitter solid opposition, he has put to death the charge he is not a vote-getter.

The senior statesman from Ohio declared simply yesterday, "My interest now is the legislative program." Unlike the strong effort he made to gain the Republican nod in 1948, Taft says he now is cutting off all campaign and publicity work.

The Ohioan swung out at the idea that he personally—or the Republican party generally—is isolationist. "Only an idiot would be an isolationist today," he scoffed.

Method, not principal, underlies his chief difference with the Democratic administration's foreign policy. Taft asserted. He castigated the administration for secrecy and bad judgment. He dropped the remark, "I haven't the slightest confidence in (Secretary of State Dean) Acheson's judgment."

Bipartisanship in foreign policy does not need to suffer, said Taft, although he agreed that international measures will be harder to pass. Bipartisanship can be continued, maybe even extended, but it is up to the President, he declared. The Senator explained that to make this possible, President Truman must consult Republican opposition in advance of decisions, and that this Republican opposition must be truly representative of the Republicans in Congress.

FINE TRUCKERS FOR OVERLOADS

Giles Manuel, a truck driver from Stephens City R. 2, Va., paid a fine of $50 and costs to Justice of the Peace Warren T. Dunn, Biglerville, on an overload charge. State police of the Gettysburg substation charged him with overloading his truck in excess of 10 per cent.

Clifford Shaffer, Johnstown, Pa., was fined $25 and costs by Squire Dunn for an overload in excess of five per cent.

Harold A. Lenhart, Hanover, paid $10 and costs on a reckless driving charge to Justice of the Peace L. G. Kuhn, Midway, following the investigation of an accident on October 25.

Glenn K. Bream, Elverson R. 1, Pa., was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace William L. Dentler, Cashtown, for speeding.

Stephen A. Schachle, Biglerville, paid a fine of $10 and costs to Justice of the Peace Martin Walter, Biglerville R. 1, for reckless driving.

Dale W. Starry, Littlestown R. 2, was fined $2 and costs by Justice of the Peace Roy Martin, Biglerville star route, for improper parking on the highway.

GUEST SOLOIST
Clifford Snyder, baritone, of the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N. Y., and son of Mrs. L. Spencer Snyder, York Springs, will be the soloist with Eastman school chorus and senior symphony orchestra under the direction of Dr. Hermann H. Genhart in the performance of "Drum Taps," Monday evening in the Fastman theatre. Mr. Snyder will broadcast from WHAM, Rochester, Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock with the McCurdy Little symphony in its opening fall program. The Adams cantion has been appointed conductor of the Monroe County American Legion Auxiliary chorus which has received first place in contests with other choruses throughout New York state.

MICH. RESULTS STILL IN DOUBT

Detroit, Nov. 11 (AP)—Four days after Michigan's election of a governor his identity was still unknown today.

The ultimate winner—either Republican Harry F. Kelly or Democrat incumbent G. Mennen Williams—was hidden in a great hodge-podge of error in tabulating last Tuesday's record non-presidential year vote. On the latest combined official and unofficial re-check a Kelly lead hovered around 300 votes.

It stood like this: Kelly 934,351, Williams 934,532. But it was almost dead certain there would be more corrections. County clerks and aides were still hard at work re-examining the vote.

Not in all its 113-year history had Michigan run into one like this. After 43 hours of a laborious balancing job, the figures, if anything, got more obscure.

On one point at least there was certainty. It was indeed Michigan's closest gubernatorial fight.

So close was it that speculation arose as to whether Michigan would know its governor's identity in time to inaugurate him on January 1.

With a recount apparently inevitable, and if any court fights should ensue, such an unprecedented situation was entirely possible.

If that did happen the temporary governor would be Republican State Senator William C. Vandenberg, a retired businessman who won the lieutenant governor's job in the election. Vandenberg, no relation to Michigan's Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, would be acting governor until the winner is decided.

Ask Court Review Of Conn. Contest

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 11 (AP)—The Connecticut Supreme court has been called on to review Tuesday's closely contested election for the state's short-term Senate seat.

Republicans have filed petitions asking for a state-wide recount in the contest in which their candidate, Prescott Bush, lost to Democratic incumbent William Benton by about 1200 votes in the first count of returns from Tuesday's election.

Benton's apparent victory gave the Democrats control of the Senate, 49-47.

John M. Bailey, Democratic state chairman who was named by Senator Benton as one of his legal advisors, said there were "the strongest possibilities" that his party would oppose the proposed recount. The decision will be deferred, however, he said, pending an examination of the 169 petitions — one for each town in the state.

Philadelphia, Nov. 11 (AP)—At least 150 persons identified by investigators as gamblers will be summoned before the federal grand jury investigating gambling in the Metropolitan Philadelphia area. But they won't have to testify for at least a week. The jury has recessed until November 20 because its chief prober, Max H. Goldschtein, must go to Kansas City to reactivate a grand jury investigation begun there some time ago.

The Sahara Desert of northern Africa is the largest arid region in the world.

FIRST TASTE OF WINTER IS HERE

(By The Associated Press)
The first real sample of winter had become full blown and life size today. Only a few small scattered areas, notably southern Florida and coastal California, have missed the chilling blast.

Virtually everywhere else, temperatures hovered near record lows for a date. A sub-freezing 27 degrees was expected to hit the California citrus fruit area, including Pomona, Covina, Azusa, Cucamonga and Redlands.

The weather was reported moderating, at least slightly, in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, but no relief was in sight for the northern midwest generally in the next 48 hours.

Federal forecaster H. S. Kenny at Chicago said New England and the North Atlantic coast would feel the chill of the eastward moving cold wave today. Boston, with a low of 42 degrees early today, was only two degrees under the New Orleans minimum. Several points in the Gulf coast region were expected to report lows today near freezing or below.

At Shreveport, La., the mercury had skidded to 29 degrees and was still dropping.

Kenny said the highest readings today generally would not be above the normal minimums for the date.

Government Closes To Manpower Rules

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—The government moved closer today to a coordinated manpower program for defense, with a pair of World War II job experts in key command posts.

The program began to take shape with Defense Secretary Marshall's recommendation of Mrs. Anna Rosenberg to be his assistant in charge of manpower, and the selection of important aides for the Office of Defense Manpower (ODM) in the Labor department.

Robert C. Goodwin, executive director of ODM submitted his personnel plan to the budget bureau. Up to now he is the only official named by Secretary of Labor Tobin to the newly created manpower agency within the Labor department.

Other top posts are to be filled by Goodwin's associates in the Bureau of Employment Security, Bureau of Labor Statistics and other divisions of the Labor department. Among them will be Edward Keenan, assistant to Goodwin; Arthur W. Motley, in charge of employment offices; and Leo Werts, now a manpower adviser in the department's international branch.

Never Had Time To Boost His Prices

Marietta, O., Nov. 11 (AP)—Bill Ray, the man who was so busy barbering the last 69 years he forgot to raise his prices, retired last night at nearby Lowell.

His prices matched the now legendary "shave and a hair cut, two bits." He started out charging 15 cents for a haircut and a dime for a shave. He never charged more.

Ray began to barber when he was 10. He set up his own shop at 19. Now he's 79 and planning "to take it easy."

A new owner who will operate the shop says prices are going up.

MULE FRESHMEN DUMP BULLETS FOR 26-0 WIN

The powerful unbeaten Muhlenberg college freshmen football team handed the Gettysburg college yearlings a 26-0 setback Friday afternoon at Allentown.

Muhlenberg, with one of its classic, first-year teams in years, dominated play throughout and scored in each period. The defeat was the second in a row for the Little Bullets who won their first three contests.

A 40-yard aerial to Pasterchick on the 10-yard line from where he raced over gave the Mules their first score near the end of the opening period.

Two dropkicks. Tredinick, Mule end, intercepted a Gettysburg pass and raced 80 yards for the Mules' second touchdown in the second period. An almost forgotten art was brought into play for the extra point when Slemmer kicked the point on a dropkick. Slemmer also added a point in the fourth period on another dropkick.

The third Muhlenberg score came in the third period when Scarpa bucked over from the 2 and the final TD resulted on a 20-yard pass to Miller in the last period.

Gettysburg's best bid for a score came in the fourth period when the Little Bullets got within the 10-yard stripe but were thwarted due to a 15-yard penalty.

Next Friday the frosh will finish their season by entertaining the Franklin and Marshall freshmen here.

The lineups: Gettysburg

SIX PRO GAMES ON TAP SUNDAY

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Six big games are on tap tomorrow in the National Football league and five of them have a direct bearing on the championship scramble.

The chief struggle looms at Chicago's Wrigley Field, where the tough Bears and speedy New York Yanks square off in a game that will affect first place in the National conference.

New York, boasting a chain of five straight victories including a 38-27 thriller over the Bears here October 29, tops its division with six triumphs in seven games. The Yanks lost to Los Angeles in their second game of the season.

The Bears, beaten only by the Yanks and Green Bay, must win if they expect to remain in the title chase. A sellout crowd of 51,000 is expected to watch the game.

Other games which will help shape the conference championships in the National and American divisions tomorrow are: Chicago Cardinals at New York Giants, Los Angeles Rams at Green Bay Packers, Philadelphia Eagles at Washington Redskins, and San Francisco 49ers at Cleveland Browns.

In addition, the Baltimore Colts, winner of only one of seven games, meet the Steelers at Pittsburgh. The Steelers have won three and lost five.

Sport Shorts

West Chester, Pa., Nov. 11 (AP)—West Chester took first place in the mythical Pennsylvania State Teachers' college football race today by virtue of a 31-6 victory over Bloomsburg.

West Chester broke Bloomsburg's consecutive win streak of 19 against teacher opponents last night. West Chester has won 20 in a row at home.

Hollywood, Nov. 11 (AP)—Golf star Ben Hogan said today his 1951 tournament plans are indefinite and the only competition he is committed to now is the colorful masters at Augusta, Ga., in April.

Hogan, winding up a three-month stint as technical supervisor of a movie based on his life, "Follow the Sun," said he will head back to his home in Fort Worth, Texas, when the picture is completed.

County Scholastic League Will Meet

A meeting of officials of the Adams County Scholastic league will be held Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at Biglerville high school.

Important business will be transacted and President Charles Taylor, New Oxford, requests a full attendance.

Warriors Drop Final Contest To Mechanicsburg Hi 20-0

Mechanicsburg, an old nemesis of Gettysburg high school, handed the Warriors a 20-0 defeat in a South Penn contest played Friday night on the winners' field before about 3,500 chilled fans.

In 24 games between the schools Mechanicsburg has won 15 while four ended in ties. The last time a local team won was in 1938. The defeat gave the Warriors a record of four wins, four losses and a tie for the season.

Glenn Bricker, one of the outstanding backs in the conference, spear-headed the Wildcats to their triumph with his hard running, scoring one touchdown on a 53-yard scamper in the fourth period and booting two extra points via place-kicks.

Mechanicsburg threatened in the opening period when it took the ball on a punt on its own 32 and chafed up four straight first downs to reach the Gettysburg 18 but a 15-yard clipping penalty moved the ball back to the 37 with the result the Warriors braced and took over on their own 31.

Passes Fail
Coach Howard Shoemaker's lads then started a drive and with Miller, Bucklew and Williams featuring the attack, carried for three successive first downs to the Wildcats' 26. The Warriors suddenly switched to the air and after three straight were grounded. Browning "stole" one which Dick Harriel had held momentarily and raced back to the Mechanicsburg 48 as the quarter ended.

From that spot the Wildcats moved to their initial tally. Browning and Bricker picked up a first down on the locals' 39 and then Bricker raced to the 26 where he slipped and fell with a clear field ahead. However, the Cats were not to be denied and after picking up a first down on the 6, Bricker hit the line for 5 and then Runk dived over, Bricker converted on a place-kick.

Connect On Aerial
Mechanicsburg went 62 yards for its next tally after taking over on its own 38 via a punt by Williams. After running plays had moved the ball to the Gettysburg 25, Bob Sanders broke through to toss John Bricker for a 7-yard loss. Brother Glenn Bricker then added 8 yards on an end run and a beautiful over-the-head catch by Suare on a 40-yard chuck by Glenn Bricker produced the score. G. Bricker's placement was wide.

No score resulted in the third quarter although Mechanicsburg threatened right at the start when the Wildcats recovered a fumble on the Gettysburg 27. After picking up a first down on the 17, the threat ended when Harriel intercepted a pass and returned the ball to the 35 on a 15-yard run.

Late in the third quarter the Warriors took the ball on their own 30 through a punt and started a drive which was good for two first downs to the enemy's 45 on nice ball totting by Miller, Williams and Bucklew but, as the last quarter started, Mechanicsburg took the ball on the 35 when a plunge by Singley failed by inches for a first down.

Midway in the final period Bricker broke into the clear on his 47-yard stripe and went the distance to hit pay dirt. He converted via a placement.

Rich Carter, husky Gettysburg tackle, missed the game due to a blood clot on his right arm. His loss was keenly felt due to Coach's Shoemaker and Sachs having to revamp their line with Clyde Cleveland moving out to the tackle position.

"Soapy" Davis and Clyde Cleveland put up outstanding games for the Warriors on the line while Bobby Miller and Bill Bucklew played well for the backs. Bricker and Garman, guard, were the luminaries for the Wildcats.

The lineups:
Gettysburg
Ends—Harriel, Heyser, Skinner, Little.
Tackles—Staley, Cleveland.
Guards—Sanders, Alland.
Centers—Davis, Small.
Backs—Singley, Robert Miller, Bucklew, Williams, Hoffman, Eberhart, Fisel, Dayhoff, Tonsel, Swope, DeHaas.

Mechanicsburg

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Three of the New York Yanks' footballers are due for an eye-popping experience when they play the Bears tomorrow. They'll see a near-sellout crowd in Chicago.

The three, Nate Johnson, Dan Edwards and John Clowes, used to play there for the Hornets, when there were more heavy-eaters on the field than there were paying spectators in the stands. . . . It should be quite an experience for owner Ted Collins, too, to draw 39,000 at home and likely 50,000 on the road for two Bears games. Those will be Ted's biggest home and away crowds in his seven years in pro football and, possibly, as big a total as his clubs drew at home in any season. . . . George Ratterman, who is largely responsible for such attendance, will celebrate his birthday tomorrow, too. . . . He'll be 24.

TRIPLE THREAT
Ed Stephens, Missouri fullback, wasn't feeling too happy over last week's game against Nebraska. . . . Ed fumbled three times and scored three touchdowns as his team lost. . . . Trying to raise his spirits, a friend said consolingly: "Ed, you still ran well, you blocked well, and you. . . . Stephens interrupted: "Yeah, and I fumbled well."

SPORTSPOURRI
Speaking of fumbles, Wisconsin fans are wondering how come Bill Gable was nominated as an outstanding offensive guard in a recent sport writers organization poll. Hurt before the season, Bill hasn't played a minute this fall. . . . Every team in the National Hockey league has at least one player who was born in Winnipeg. . . . The U.S. Golf association has raised more than $63,000 of the 100 g's it needs to pay for its new headquarters, golf house. Contributors include two members of the last British Walker Cup team, Laddie Lucas and Gerald Micklem. . . . Abilene, Texas, football fans now are booming Brad Rowland, the McMurry college whiz, for a spot in the East-West of Blue-Gray football games. . . . And the fans from South Carolina are hoping they can boom Clemson for a bigger and more profitable bowl game than the Gator bowl, which already has that team on its tentative list.

VANDENBERG TO RETURN TO JOB

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R-Mich.) expects to be back on the job in the new Congress and his return may temper Republican fire on administration foreign policies.

Vandenberg has written friends that he hopes by following doctors' orders to be ready for work when the 82nd Congress convenes January 3. Idle for many months because of illness and a series of operations, he is resting now at his home town of Grand Rapids, Mich.

As top Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations committee, the Michigan Senator has served in the past as the chief GOP spokesman on foreign policy in Congress. He has had notable success in compromising foreign policy differences between the Democratic administration and a sizeable bloc of Republican Senators.

Vandenberg kept himself relatively free of the campaign preceding last Tuesday's election, results of which indicated administration international policies are in for a tough going-over from some re-elected and some brand new Republican Senators.

Some of these, notably Senator-elect Everett Dirksen of Illinois, have joined in the demand for the resignation of Secretary of State Acheson and a complete overhauling of far eastern policies.

Vandenberg has made it clear that he doesn't subscribe to the course that has been followed in Asia, he concurred in an August statement of GOP foreign relations members which charged that the administration had given a green light for Communist aggression in Korea.

BOUDREAU MAY GO TO PIRATES

Cleveland, Nov. 11 (AP)—Lou Boudreau, the nation's No. 1 unemployed ball player, might glance towards Pittsburgh today for a possible answer to his big league future.

There sits Branch Rickey, the new general manager and vice president of the Pirates, who cleared the way so that the Cleveland Indians could fire Boudreau after nine years as shortstop manager.

The catch to the business of keeping Boudreau in suspense by not hiring or firing him weeks ago turns out to have been the difficulty in cutting the new manager, Al Lopez, away from the same job with minor-league Indianapolis.

It was only after Rickey took over the Pirates, he said, that they were able to get permission to take him. They acted.

Anyway, Ryan now says the Cleveland team is arranging another manager for Boudreau on a big league club and that it is "nearing completion." (Boudreau says he knows nothing of this.)

Here is where Rickey comes in. He has a date with Pirate Manager Billy Meyer on Monday and there has been talk he will buy up Meyer's $40,000 contract and get a new manager. Is that what Ryan means?

Today, the Tribe's big problem is to convince the hysterical Boudreau fans—and there are plenty—that the move is all for the best.

Nobel Chemistry Prize Awarded

Stockholm, Sweden, Nov. 11 (AP)—Prof. Otto Diels and Prof. Kurt Adler—a German teacher-pupil team—have been awarded the 1950 Nobel chemistry prize for joint work dating back to 1927-28.

Their award, among four announced yesterday, was for the two scientists' work on the discovery of the Diels synthesis, a method by which odors and complex chemical compounds can be produced artificially.

The Nobel literature prize for 1949, withheld last fall, went to novelist William Faulkner of Oxford, Miss., and this year's literature prize was awarded to Bertrand Russell, British mathematician, philosopher, and moralist.

Prof. Cecil Frank Powell of Britain's Bristol university won the Nobel physics prize for his discoveries regarding mesons—the particles believed to hold the atom nucleus together—and for his development of a simple photographic method to investigate the secrets of the nucleus.

Carlessness Pays Off — In Death

Unsafe gun practices are the causes of many hunting fatalities. The muzzle of a gun should never be directed against any person. Dragging a firearm muzzle-first from an automobile, or through brush or fence is always hazardous. In the above illustration, observing the requirement that only unloaded guns be transported in vehicles would have prevented this occurrence.

Ready To Make 375th Trip Over North Pole

Fairbanks, Alaska, Nov. 11 (AP)—It'll be 375 times across the North Pole for the 375th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron tomorrow. Boeing B-29 Superfortresses have been making the polar trek since 1947.

Of the 14 crew members alerted for tomorrow's top-to-the-world trip, a fellow from Phoenix, Ariz.—M/Sgt. Ennis A. Hillbrant—will be the polar veteran. He's been on 39 pole missions so far, and tomorrow will be his 40th.

Sgt. Grant Turbeville of Minneola, Tex., a scanner, will be the only neophyte. He'll be making his first trip. Capt. Edward N. Pollock of Wyoming, Pa., is the pilot. It will be his 17th trip.

The polar weather trip is attempted every other day.

DISCLAIMS AIM FOR SENATE JOB

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—Senator Russell of Georgia said today he has "no personal desire" to be Senate majority leader in the 82nd Congress.

He added, however, that he appreciated telegrams and telephone calls he said he had received from many Democratic leaders urging him to seek the post.

Russell stated his position to a reporter after Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming had said he was not interested in the job and thought Russell should take it.

Both men top many lists of possible successors to Senate Majority Leader Lucas (D-Ill.). Lucas lost his reelection race this week when GOP votes cut the Democratic majority in the Senate to 49 as compared with 47 Republicans.

Asked about taking over the difficult leadership of this feather-edge majority, Russell said: "I have no personal desire to serve as majority leader."

O'Mahoney was even more definite. He said: "No, I'm not interested in the job. I think that Dick Russell is one of the ablest members of the Senate and should assume the onerous duties of leadership."

HORSE AUCTION TOPS MILLION

Harrisburg, Nov. 11 (AP)—The Hanover Shoe farm, of Hanover, Pa., posted the best average of the week as the annual standardized sale came to an end in the state farm show arena.

The sale topped the million dollar mark for the fourth consecutive year with sales totaling $1,055,150. The figure was below last year's record of $1,182,225, but surpassed the totals of 1947 and 1948.

Hanover Shoe farm's part in the sale was the disposing 83 yearlings for a total $233,350, or an average of $2,811.

Robert Morris, a four-year-old pacer, brought the top price at yesterday's closing session when Poy Funderburk, Springfield, Ill., agent, paid $7,000. Funderburk also paid $4,000 for the two-year-old trotter Carroll Lee.

The two-year-old pacing filly Deeter Frisco went to William Pence, Goshen, N. Y., agent, for $5,400.

Top price of the day for a yearling was $5,200 paid by John Scripps, San Diego, Calif., for Janice Tass, a daughter of Arletan and a sister to the two-minute pacer Ebonita.

In the continental United States the temperature has dropped 60 degrees below zero in Montana, and risen to 134 degrees in the shade in Death Valley, Calif.

CANNERS CLOSE WITH 9TH WIN OVER COLUMBIA

Joe Walde, star Biglerville back, had a field day as the Cannors romped to a 33-13 victory over Columbia high Friday night at Columbia in a Conference of the Roses football game.

Walde scored four touchdowns for the winners with the other tally going to Warner.

The triumph closed one of the most successful seasons in Biglerville history. Coach Russ Kane's outfit won nine of 10 games, losing only to the powerful Palmyra team, current conference leaders.

Biglerville scored twice in the opening period, the first of which was set up when Lawver returned the opening kickoff 60 yards. Several plays later Walde went over from the 5. Lawver booted the first of his three extra points via a placement.

The second TD came later in the round when Walde raced 70 yards deep into Columbia territory and later crashed through for the score.

Biglerville hiked its margin to 26-0 at half time with a pair of tallies in the second period.

After a scoreless third quarter, Biglerville again scored in the fourth period while Columbia rallied with a pair of six-pointers.

MULE FRESHMEN DUMP BULLETS FOR 26-0 WIN

The powerful unbeaten Muhlenberg college freshmen football team handed the Gettysburg college yearlings a 26-0 setback Friday afternoon at Allentown.

Muhlenberg, with one of its classic first-year teams in years, dominated play throughout and scored in each period. The defeat was the second in a row for the Little Bullets who won their first three contests.

A 40-yard aerial to Pasterchick on the 10-yard line from where he raced over gave the Mules their first score near the end of the opening period.

Two Dropkicks
Tredinick, Mule end, intercepted a Gettysburg pass and raced 80 yards for the Mules' second touchdown in the second period. An almost forgotten art was brought into play for the extra point when Slemmer kicked the point on a dropkick. Slemmer also added a point in the fourth period on another dropkick.

The third Muhlenberg score came in the third period when Scarpa bucked over from the 2 and the final TD resulted on a 29-yard pass to Miller in the last period.

Gettysburg's best bid for a score came in the fourth period when the Little Bullets got within the 10-yard stripe but were thwarted due to a 15-yard penalty.

Next Friday the frosh will finish their season by entertaining the Franklin and Marshall freshmen here.

The lineups:

SIX PRO GAMES ON TAP SUNDAY

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Six big games are on tap tomorrow in the National Football league and five of them have a direct bearing on the championship scramble.

The chief struggle looms at Chicago's Wrigley Field, where the tough Bears and speedy New York Yanks square off in a game that will affect first place in the National conference.

New York, boasting a chain of five straight victories including a 38-27 thriller over the Bears here October 29, tops its division with six triumphs in seven games. The Yanks lost to Los Angeles in their second game of the season.

The Bears, beaten only by the Yanks and Green Bay, must win if they expect to remain in the title chase. A sellout crowd of 51,000 is expected to watch the game.

Other games which will help shape the conference championships tomorrow are: Chicago Cardinals at New York Giants, Los Angeles Rams at Green Bay Packers, Philadelphia Eagles at Washington Redskins, and San Francisco 49ers at Cleveland Browns.

In addition, the Baltimore Colts, winner of only one of seven games, meet the Steelers at Pittsburgh. The Steelers have won three and lost five.

West Chester, Pa., Nov. 11 (AP)—West Chester took first place in the mythical Pennsylvania State Teachers' college football race today by virtue of a 31-6 victory over Bloomsburg.

West Chester broke Bloomsburg's consecutive win streak of 19 against teacher opponents last night. West Chester has won 20 in a row at home.

Hollywood, Nov. 11 (AP)—Golf star Ben Hogan said today his 1951 tournament plans are indefinite and the only competition he is committed to now is the colorful masters at Augusta, Ga., in April.

Hogan, winding up a three-month stint as technical supervisor of a movie based on his life, "Follow the Sun," said he will head back to his home in Fort Worth, Texas, when the picture is completed.

County Scholastic League Will Meet

A meeting of officials of the Adams County Scholastic league will be held Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at Biglerville high school.

Important business will be transacted and President Charles Taylor, New Oxford, requests a full attendance.

Warriors Drop Final Contest To Mechanicsburg Hi 20-0

Mechanicsburg, an old nemesis of Gettysburg high school, handed the Warriors a 20-0 defeat in a South Penn contest played Friday night on the winners' field before about 3,500 chilled fans.

In 24 games between the schools Mechanicsburg has won 15 while four ended in ties. The last time a local team won was in 1938. The defeat gave the Warriors a record of four wins, four losses and a tie for the season.

Glenn Bricker, one of the outstanding backs in the conference, spear-headed the Wildcats to their triumph with his hard running, scoring one touchdown on a 53-yard scamper in the fourth period and booting two extra points via placekicks.

Mechanicsburg threatened in the opening period when it took the ball on a punt on its own 32 and chalked up four straight first downs to reach the Gettysburg 18 but a 15-yard clipping penalty moved the ball back to the 37 with the result the Warriors traced and took over on their own 31.

Passes Fail
Coach Howard Shoemaker's lads then started a drive and with Miller, Bucklew and Williams featuring the attack, carried for three successive first downs to the Wildcats' 26. The Warriors suddenly switched to the air and after three straight were grounded, Browning "stole" one which Dick Harriel had held momentarily and raced back to the Mechanicsburg 48 as the quarter ended.

From that spot the Wildcats moved to their initial tally. Browning and Bricker picked up a first down on the locals' 39 and then Bricker raced to the 26 where he slipped and fell with a clear field ahead. However, the 'Cats were not to be denied and after picking up a first down on the 6, Bricker hit the line for 5 and then Runk dived over. Bricker converted on a placekick.

Connect On Aerial

Mechanicsburg went 62 yards for its next tally after taking over on its own 38 via a punt by Williams. After running plays had moved the ball to the Gettysburg 25, Bob Sanders broke through to toss John Bricker for a 7-yard loss. Brother Glenn Bricker then added 8 yards on an end run and a beautiful over-the-head catch by Suare on a 40-yard chuck by Glenn Bricker produced the score. G. Bricker's placement was wide.

No score resulted in the third quarter although Mechanicsburg threatened right at the start when the Wildcats recovered a fumble on the Gettysburg 27. After picking up a first down on the 17, the threat ended when Harriel intercepted a pass and returned the ball to the 35 on a 15-yard run.

Late in the third quarter the Warriors took the ball on their own 30 through a punt and started a drive which was good for two first downs to the enemy's 45 on nice ball totting by Miller, Williams and Bucklew but, as the last quarter started, Mechanicsburg took the ball on the 35 when a plunge by Singley failed by inches for a first down.

Midway in the final period Bricker broke into the clear on his 47-yard stripe and went the distance to hit pay dirt. He converted via a placekick.

Carter Sorely Missed

"Rich" Carter, husky Gettysburg tackle, missed the game due to a blood clot on his right arm. His loss was keenly felt due to Coach's Shoemaker and Sachs having to revamp their line with Clyde Cleveland moving out to the tackle position.

"Soapy" Davis and Clyde Cleveland put up outstanding games for the Warriors on the line while Bobby Miller and Bill Bucklew played well for the backs, Bricker and Garman, guard, were the luminaries for the Wildcats.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—Three of the New York Yanks' footballers are due for an eye-popping experience when they play the Bears tomorrow.

They'll see a near-sellout crowd in Chicago. . . . The three, Nate Johnson, Dan Edwards and John Clowes, used to play there for the Hornets, when there were more heavy-eaters on the field than there were paying spectators in the stands. . . . It should be quite an experience for owner Ted Collins, too, to draw 39,000 at home and likely 50,000 on the road for two Bears games. Those will be Ted's biggest home and away crowds in his seven years in pro football and, possibly, as big a total as his clubs drew at home in any season. . . . George Ratterman, who is largely responsible for such attendance, will celebrate his birthday tomorrow, too. . . . He'll be 24.

TRIPLE THREAT

Ed Stephens, Missouri fullback, wasn't feeling too happy over last week's game against Nebraska. . . . Ed fumbled three times and scored three touchdowns as his team lost. . . . Trying to raise his spirits, a friend said consolingly: "Ed, you still ran well, you blocked well, and you. . . ." Stephens interrupted: "Yeah, and I fumbled well."

SPORTSPOURRI

Speaking of fumbles, Wisconsin fans are wondering how come Bill Gable was nominated as an outstanding offensive guard in a recent sport writers organization poll. Hurt before the season, Bill hasn't played a minute this fall. . . . Every team in the National Hockey league has as least one player who was born in Winnipeg. . . . The U.S. Golf association has raised more than $63,000 of the 100 g's it needs to pay for its new headquarters, golf house. Contributors include two members of the last British Walker Cup team, Laddie Lucas and Gerald Micklem. . . . Abilene, Texas, football fans now are booming Brad Rowland, the McMurry college whiz, for a spot in the East-West of Blue-Gray football game. . . . And the fans from South Carolina are hoping they can boom Clemson for a bigger and more profitable bowl game than the Gator bowl, which already has that team on its tentative list.

Nobel Chemistry Prize Awarded

Stockholm, Sweden, Nov. 11 (AP)—Prof. Otto Diels and Prof. Kurt Adler — a German teacher-pupil team — have been awarded the 1950 Nobel chemistry prize for joint work dating back to 1927-28.

Their award, among four announced yesterday, was for the two scientists' work on the discovery of the Diels synthesis, a method by which odors and complex chemical compounds can be produced artificially.

The Nobel literature prize for 1949, withheld last fall, went to novelist William Faulkner of Oxford, Miss., and this year's literature prize was awarded to Bertrand Russell, British mathematician, philosopher, and moralist.

Prof. Cecil Frank Powell of Britain's Bristol university won the Nobel physics prize for his discoveries regarding mesons — the particles believed to hold the atom nucleus together — and for his development of a simple photographic method to investigate the secrets of the nucleus.

Unsafe gun practices are the causes of many hunting fatalities. The muzzle of a gun should never be directed against any person. Dragging a firearm muzzle-first from an automobile, or through brush or fence is always hazardous. In the above instance, observing the requirement that only unloaded guns be transported in vehicles would have prevented this occurrence.

BOUDREAU MAY GO TO PIRATES

Cleveland, Nov. 11 (AP)—Lou Boudreau, the nation's No. 1 unemployed ball player, might glance towards Pittsburgh today for a possible answer to his big league future.

There sits Branch Rickey, the new general manager and vice president of the Pirates, who cleared the way so that the Cleveland Indians could fire Boudreau after nine years as shortstop manager.

The catch to the business of keeping Boudreau in suspense by not hiring or firing him weeks ago turns out to have been the difficulty in cutting the new manager, Al Lopez, away from the same job with minor league Indianapolis.

Indianapolis is a Pittsburgh farm. Ellis Ryan, Indians' president disclosed that he and General Manager Hank Greenberg had decided that if they could not get Lopez, they would rehire Boudreau.

It was only after Rickey took over the Pirates, he said, that they were able to get permission to take him. They acted.

Anyway, Ryan now says the Cleveland team is arranging another managership for Boudreau on a big league club and that it is "nearing completion." (Boudreau says he knows nothing of this.)

Here is where Rickey comes in. He has a date with Pirate Manager Billy Meyer on Monday and there has been talk he will buy Meyer's $40,000 contract and get a new manager. Is that what Ryan means?

ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM HELD IN EMMITSBURG

Armistice Day was observed in Emmitsburg today with a special program sponsored by Post No. 6558, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Francis X. Elder Post No. 121, American Legion and the auxiliaries of these organizations.

A parade formed at the Legion post and marched to the "doughboy" monument on West Main street, led by the colors and a firing squad. A wreath was placed on the monument, erected soon after World War I and a salute was fired by the firing squad.

Church bells were tolled for five minutes shortly before 11 o'clock, the hour of the Armistice which ended the first World War.

The speaker for the occasion was Col. Thomas J. Frailey, recalling the first Armistice Day, Col. Frailey said:

"The great objective had been reached. The war to end wars was ended. Some four million men, the greatest force ever mobilized up to that time for the defense of this nation and its ideals, halted with rejoicing the signing of the Armistice and returned to their homes to engage in their various peacetime occupations.

"As we review the nation's history today, however, we are compelled to realize that permanent peace had not been achieved. The full measure of devotion does not appear to have yet been paid. Today our men are fighting and giving their lives in Korea in behalf of democratic free nations of the world.

"Today our minds are not at rest of ease. We seem to be beset with an ominous fear and this is not without basis when we look at the world today. We have a feeling of reverential awe mingled with happiness and gloom. Reverence to the fullest extent for those who have paid the supreme sacrifice. We pause to pay them solemn tribute. We rejoice with a feeling of thanksgiving when we think of the victories we have won and look in retrospect at the glorious history of our country. We are filled with gloom and sadness when we think of the fate of some of the free people of the world.

"Accordingly, we re-dedicate ourselves to the crusade for freedom. We have been America's traditional mission and thus prevent enslavement."

believe that we are carrying forward the torch of freedom and democracy, thus far so nobly advanced by our fallen heroes. Our nation under God is pledged to that cause. May we never falter in our sacred duty."

Philip B. Sharpe has been appointed a consultant of the National Rifle Association of America's technical of ison. The association has a membership in excess of 250,000. Mr. Sharpe conducts a private laboratory at his home on the lower tract road near Emmitsburg. This new appointment will require handling correspondence concerning technical points of several hundred letters per month.

Sharpe is nationally known and an accepted authority in this field. He has been a member of the National Rifle association for 30 years, and a writer for its magazine for almost that period. Many of his articles have been published in other sporting publications. The December issue of "The American Rifleman" will have a feature article by Sharpe on revolver velocity. He is the author of two books, "The Rifle in America" and "The Complete Guide to Handloading."

34 Are Routed In York Blaze

York, Pa., Nov. 11 (AP)—Thirty-four persons were routed in freezing temperatures early today in a fire that damaged eight homes.

The three-alarm blaze also saw eight firemen injured, including two who had to be hospitalized.

The row of eight homes, in the south end of the city across from the Eagle Fire company, was damaged to the extent of $30,000. Fire Chief L. Ellis Wagner in making the estimate said the cause of the blaze was unknown.

One resident, Joan E. Hays, 82, said he lost $3,000 in old coins and cash in the blaze.

forward likewise unopposed. The troops had been in U. S. force in last weeks Red communist attack were moving north of Kunu.

To the northeast U. S. Marines moved toward the big Changin power dam. They gained five miles and took the last of four hydro-electric plants which supply power to North Korea and parts of Manchuria.

The marines are in the Tenth Corps, which reportedly linked up with the U. S. Eighth Army at Tokchon in north-central Korea 60 miles northeast of the former Red capital of Pyongyang.

Ahead of the advancing Allies, both navy and air force planes, pounded more than 50 areas. Villages were fired, big towns smashed and two Manchurian border bridges knocked out. Two more were damaged.

STRIKE THREAT ENDS
Philadelphia, Nov. 11 (AP)—Service employees in 167 Philadelphia office buildings have agreed to a new contract, ending a threat of a strike. Owners of the buildings and a committee from local 69, AFL-CIO Building Service Employees Union agreed to a new contract yesterday providing wage increases for the union's 5,000 members.

SENATOR TAFT NOT CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT

Cincinnati, Nov. 11 (AP)—If the Republican party wants Senator Robert A. Taft as its 1952 Presidential candidate it will have to craft him. The Senator led right out in an interview yesterday by saying, "I am certainly not a candidate for the (Presidential) nomination. I am not going to run for President."

Then he carefully appended the remark, "I don't say that I wouldn't like the nomination if it were offered to me but I shall make no campaign to get it."

Passed Over Twice
Twice Taft's name has been proposed at Republican conventions as the GOP candidate for Chief Executive. But in 1940 and again in 1948 he was passed over.

Now by pointing a 430,000-vote plurality over State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson to gain re-election to a third Senate term and in spite of labor's bitter self opposition, he has put to death the charge he is not a vote-getter.

The senior statesman from Ohio declared simply yesterday. My interest now is the legislative program. Unlike the strong effort to move to gain the Republican nod in 1948 Taft says he now is cutting off all campaign and publicity work.

The Ohioan stung out at the idea that he personally—or the Republican party generally—was a sensation. "Only an idiot would be an isolationist today," he scoffed.

Method, not principle, underlies his chief difference with the Democratic administration's foreign policy. Taft asserted he disapproved the administration for secrecy and bad judgment. He dropped the remark "I haven't the slightest confidence in (Secretary of State Dean) Acheson's judgment."

Bipartisanship in foreign policy does not need to suffer, said Taft, although he agreed that international measures will be harder to pass. Bipartisanship can be continued maybe even extended, out it is up to the President he declared. The Senator explained that to make this possible, President Truman must consult Republican opposition in advance of decisions and that this Republican opposition must be truly representative of the Republicans in Congress.

FINE TRUCKERS FOR OVERLOADS

Giles Manuel, a truck driver from Stephens City, R. 2, Va., paid a fine of $50 and costs to Justice of the Peace Warren T. Dunn, Biglerville, on an overload charge. State police of the Gettysburg station charged him with overloading his truck in excess of 10 per cent.

Clifford Shaffer, Johnstown, Pa., was fined $25 and costs by Squire Dunn for an overload in excess of five per cent.

Harold A. Lenhart, Hanover, paid $10 and costs on a reckless driving charge to Justice of the Peace L. G. Kuhn, M. Way, following the investigation of an accident on October 25.

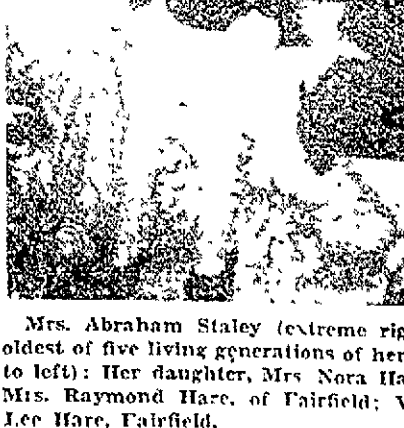

Glenn E. Bream, Emerson R. 1, Pa., was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace William L. Dertler, Cashtown, for speeding.

Stephen A. Schachle, Biglerville, paid a fine of $10 and costs to Justice of the Peace Martin Walter, Biglerville R. 1, for reckless driving.

Dale W. Stary, Littlestown R. 2, was fined $2 and costs by Justice of the Peace Roy Martin, Biglerville, for improper parking on the highway.

MOON RESULTS STILL IN DOUBT

Detroit, Nov. 11 (AP)—Four days after Michigan's election of a governor, the identity was still unknown.

The Lumina winner—either Republican Harry F. Kelly or Democrat incumbent G. Mennen Williams—was hidden in a great fog of doubt or error in tabulating last Tuesday's record non-Presidential vote.

On Tuesday combined official and unofficial re-check a Kelly lead showed around 300,000.

It stood like this Kelly 934,551 Williams 934,532.

But it was almost dead certain there would be more corrections. County clerks and aides were still at work re-examining the vote.

Not in all its 113-year history had Michigan run into one like this.

After 48 hours of a hapless balancing act, the figures, if anything, got more obscure.

On one point at least there was certainty. It was indeed Michigan's closest gubernatorial fight.

So close was it that speculation rose as to whether Michigan would know its governor's identity in time to inaugurate him on January 1.

With a recount apparently inevitable, and if any court fights should arise such an unprecedented situation was entirely possible.

If that did happen the temporary governor would be Republican State Senator William C. Vanderberg, a retired businessman who won the lieutenant governor's job in the election on Vanderberg's tie to Michigan's Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, would be acting governor until the winner is decided.

Ask Court Review Of Conn. Contest

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 11 (AP)—The Connecticut Supreme court has been called on to review Tuesday's closely contested election for the states short-term Senate seat.

Republicans have filed petitions asking for a state-wide recount in the contest in which their candidate, Prescott Bush, lost to Democratic incumbent William Benton by about 1200 votes in the first count of returns from Tuesday's election.

Benton's apparent victory gave the Democrats control of the Senate, 49-47.

John M. Bailey, Democratic state chairman who was named by Senator Benton as one of his legal advisors, said there were "the strongest possible" that his party would oppose the proposed recount. The decision will be delayed, however, he said, pending an examination of the 169 petitions—one for each town in the state.

Philadelphia, Nov. 11 (AP)—At least 150 persons identified by investigators as gamblers will be summoned before the federal grand jury investigating a racket in the Metropolitan Philadelphia area.

But they won't have to testify for at least a week. The jury has recessed until November 26 because its chief prober, Max H. Goldschmidt, is to Kansas City to investigate a fraud just investigation began there some time ago.

FIRST TASTE OF WINTER IS HERE

(By The Associated Press)
The first real sample of winter had become full blown and life was today. Only a few small scattered areas, notably southern Florida and coastal California, have missed the chilling blast.

Typically everywhere else, temperatures hovered near record lows for a date. A day-freezing 27 degrees was recorded at San Francisco (minus 11) and the California cities that area, including Pomona, Corona, Azusa, Cucamonga and Redlands.

The weather was reported moderating at least slightly in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas but no other was in sight for the northern mid-western general. In the next 48 hours.

Federal forecaster H. S. Kenny at Chicago said New England and the North Atlantic coast, would feel the bite of the expected moving cold wave today. Below with a low of 42 degrees early today is only two degrees under the New Orleans minimum. Several points in the Gulf coast region were expected to report lows today near freezing or below.

At Shreveport, La., the mercury had skated to 29 degrees and was still dropping.

Kenny said the highest readings today generally would not be above the normal minimums for the area.

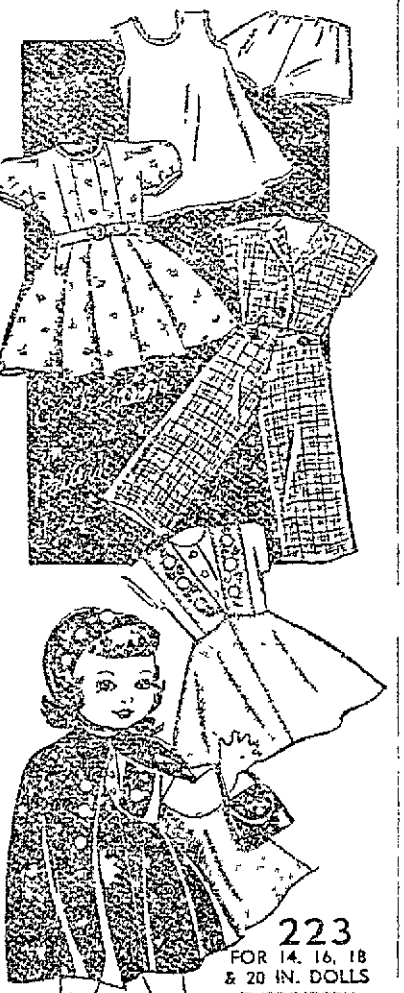

Government Closes To Manpower Rules

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—The government moved closer today to a coordinated manpower program for defense with a part of World War II job experts in key command posts.

The program began to take shape with Defense Secretary Marshall's recommendation of Mrs. Anna Roy, co-chair to be his assistant in charge of manpower and the selection of "manpower" for the Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM) in the Labor department.

Roger C. Goodwin, executive director of ODM, submitted his personnel plan to the budget bureau. Up to now he is the only official named by Secretary of Labor, Tobin, to the newly created manpower agency within the Labor department.

Other top posts are to be filled by Goodwin's associates in the Bureau of Employment Security, Bureau of Labor Statistics and other divisions of the Labor department. Among them will be Edward Keenan, assistant to Goodwin, Arthur W. Motley, in charge of employment offices, and Leo Werts, now a manpower adviser in the department's international branch.

Never Had Time To Boost His Prices

Marietta, O., Nov. 11 (AP)—Bill Ray, the man who has so long been bartering the last 60 years he forgot to raise his prices, retired last night at nearby Lowell.

His prices matched the now legendary "shave and a hair cut two bits." He started out charging 15 cents for a haircut and a dime for a shave. He never charged more. Ray began to barber when he was 10. He set up his own shop at 19. Now he's 79 and planning "to take it easy."

A new owner who will operate the shop says prices are going up.

Training Needed, Says Col. Arnold: The vital importance of training in discipline and courage and the development of the moral fiber of the individual in the preparations of the defense of our nation was stressed this morning in an Armistice Day address before the Gettysburg high school student body by Lt. Col. E. G. Arnold.

On the platform with the speaker were a score of members of the Albert J. Lentz post No. 202, of the American Legion who sponsored the Armistice Day program for the high school.

John Hewitt Named Head of Legion Club: John W. Hewitt was elected president of the Last Man's club of the American Legion at the organization's second annual banquet, held Saturday evening at Cross Keys Inn. Seventy-eight members attended with the retiring president, Horace E. Smiley, presiding.

The other officers named are: Vice president, George W. Boehner, secretary, Frank J. Sionker; treasurer, Albert Cardenti; historian, William H. Allison; and chaplain, Lloyd C. Keefe, re-elected.

Wallick-Bollinger: Dennis Stavelly Wallick, son of Emanuel Wallick, Littlestown, and Mildred Louisa Bollinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bollinger, Taneytown, Md., were united in marriage in St. John's Lutheran church parsonage, Littlestown, on Saturday at 7 p.m. The single ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Kenneth D. James.

468 Electoral Votes Sweep Roosevelt into Office: (By the Associated Press), President Roosevelt, the precedent breaker, smashed one of America's most ancient traditions with a dramatic and sweeping victory in his battle for a third term.

His election was conceded in mid-morning by Wendell L. Willkie, his dogged, hard-hitting Republican opponent, who had made the third term question one of the two outstanding issues of a slambang campaign.

Baughner, Haines and Crider Win: More than 16,000 Adams county voters went to the polls on Tuesday and gave a county majority of 1,255 to Wendell L. Willkie and slightly smaller majorities to all other candidates, with the exception of S. Luther Baltzley, GOP candidate for Adams county's only seat in the lower house of the state legislature, who was decisively defeated by George L. Baughner.

Adams countians helped select Paul M. Crider, Esq., Chambersburg, to the state Senate from the Adams-Franklin district and gave Congressman Chester H. Gross a majority of 878 over his successful Democratic opponent, Harry L. Haines.

Establishes Dairy Ranch in County: Charles B. Spicer, Esq., of Harlan, Ky., has purchased four adjoining farms in the vicinity of Heidlersburg, which total about 800 acres. He is engaged in converting the combined properties into a modern dairy ranch on which he will keep a herd of more than 100 purebred Ayrshire dairy cattle.

The farms, which were purchased to make up the ranch, include those of Paul Spicer, Curtis Houck, Harry Miller and John C. Brame.

George Stock and Beatrice Weaver Wed in New Oxford: Private George Stock, of the state motor police at Hershey, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Stock, North Stratton street, and Miss Beatrice Weaver, daughter of Mrs. Mamie Weaver, New Oxford, were united in marriage Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, in St. Mary's Catholic church in New Oxford. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. Paul Weaver, an uncle of the bride.

Miss Bernice Weaver, a twin sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and Joseph Ellis served as best man. Bernard Stock and William Weaver were the ushers.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
GOING, GOING—GONE!

There is a cross section of human life portrayed in auction sales, no matter where they are held. I have visited them in out-of-the-way farming districts and those in the big city auction rooms. They are always interesting, but a note of sadness clouds them all, with a fog of memories.

An old rocking chair that had served for many a year and rocked many a baby to its rest and peace—"Ah, that gentleman over there—sold for a dollar and a quarter!" Little things, many a keepsake, but each one significant at some time or other. Perhaps a death, or the breaking up of a home after all the "chicks" had hatched and gone to other parts. A segment of life.

Pictures, books, furniture, jewelry—they all pass in parade in the auction room. Illustrations of more opulent days. "Why, ladies and gentlemen, it is a crime for such a work of art to be sold at such a price. In this very room, a year ago, it was sold for three times the price you now offer. It is a bargain at four times that price. Over there. Thank you. You recall what the poet Keats once wrote: 'A thing of beauty is a joy forever.' Thank you, thank you. Last call. Sold to the gentleman in the rear."

I have witnessed great libraries of rare books sold, the paintings of the masters, and those by noted artists, as well as the furnishings of homes, that were once the scenes of gaiety and renown—only later to be auctioned off to the highest bidder. And each time I have left the auction room with the fact in mind that none of us have any permanent hold on anything but our faith. Our possessions are transient things, mere loans, later to be dispensed or scattered to other temporary overseers.

There is one thing however, that can be both held and passed on, and that is the love and enjoyment that our temporary possessions have given to us, and with which we have been forever enriched. That which we have treasured in our heart never leaves us. Many a treasure now in my possession still holds the finger prints of love that some one else placed there. And I have added mine—to enrich it!

DISAPPOINTED GOLFERS

Now the disappointed golfers who began in early spring
By announcing with the summer every club they'd learn to swing.

Close their lockers for the winter where the moths can eat their shirts.
They are suffering golfers' anguish and it's plain to see it hurts.

Hope refused to keep its promise.
Many a putt has missed the cup
Not for lack of friendly counsel, but the habit: Looking up.
And the scores they vowed to lower near the hundred count remained.
For a reason very simple: Skill
by wishing isn't gained.

The drives for length intended shortened were by hook or slice.
Didn't practice what was told them, wouldn't take the pre's advice.

So they had a dismal summer;
"Off their game" the season through.
Now the snow is on the fairways they may read a book or two.

I shall meet them in the springtime and shall smile to hear them say
"Just watch out for us this season. In the seventies we'll play."

We'll make scores that will amaze you," but I'm betting that they don't.
For "amazing scores" take practice, and I know those fellows won't.

PHONE STRIKE
WILL EXTEND
OVER WEEKEND

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—It appears certain today that the partial coast-to-coast telephone strike will continue over the week-end. It now is in its third day.

The first federal peace talks failed yesterday after only one of several pay and contract issues was discussed. No new joint session was planned before tomorrow afternoon.

At the same time, the striking GTO communications workers of America started a new system of "hit-and-run" picketing aimed at causing the greatest possible confusion in the huge Bell system.

It was designed to keep the company from mobilizing clerks and supervisors fast enough to handle the struck jobs at any one place.

Effects Spotty
The national effect of the strike was spotty, and varied widely from city to city. The greatest sufferers were the long distance service and areas with manual telephone exchanges—both requiring direct operators.

Automatic dial service, which includes about 70 per cent of the nation's phones, was not affected at once. If the strike lasts long enough, however, wear and tear and breakdowns could cut into the dial system. The maintenance men of Bell's subsidiary Western Electric Co., responsible for installation and repair, are the principle CWA division on strike.

The union said yesterday that of its nearly 300,000 members, 33,000 were actually on strike and another 67,000 were honoring the picket lines—a total of 100,000 out of work.

Want Higher Wages
The company estimated that two-thirds of its national service was normal, and the remainder spotty. CWA divisions are striking in all but five New England states.

The main quarrel is a 13-month dispute between Western Electric and CWA's maintenance division 6 and distributing division 18. The two principal issues are pay rates and contract duration. The company has reportedly offered an 11-cent hourly increase to wages now averaging $1.55 to $1.62 per hour, and wants the pay agreement to last 16 months.

The union has demanded an unspecified but "substantially" higher increase, and a one-year agreement.

New Oxford

New Oxford—John E. George, R. 2, proprietor of the Cross Keys Diner east of town who fractured a vertebra last week when he fell from a horse while participating in the community Halloween parade, has been placed in a cast at the Warner hospital where he was taken after the accident.

A group of the younger women of the Rosary society of the local Catholic church are beginning preparations for a public card party at the parochial hall on Wednesday evening, November 29.

Mrs. Mabel Hedges, Bridgehampton, Long Island, N. Y., is a house guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester E. Loper, near Pine Run. Mrs. Loper's mother, Mrs. Emily G. Hulston, who has spent several months with her, has returned to her home at Cooperstown, N. Y.

Men of the Holy Name society of the local Catholic church are completing preparations for the public benefit party to be conducted on Wednesday evening at the parochial hall.

Robert Lemmon, who moved several months ago to the Hanover area from near Pine Run, expects to return to this section before long, having bought the Gebhart farm near the Carlisle Pike as his future residence.

The annual nocturnal adoration, conducted each year at the local Catholic church by men of the Holy Name society for prayer for a just peace and the improvement of conditions throughout the world, will take place again this year by permission of Bishop George L. Leach of the Harrisburg diocese. The night designated is Sunday, beginning with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament after the evening service, after which different groups of the men will each spend an hour in prayer at the church throughout the night until mass the following morning.

Capt. Hershey Ordered to Duty: Captain Richard Hershey, of the Gettysburg National park, Wednesday, received telegraphic orders to report for active duty on Monday at Fort Belvoir, Va.

Piney Mt. Inn Manager to Wed in Pittsburgh: Announcements have been received in Gettysburg of the approaching marriage of Robert H. Bigger and Miss Mary Virginia Weet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee C. Weet, of Pittsburgh.

The wedding will take place in Pittsburgh on November 13 and a reception will follow at the Roosevelt hotel, Pittsburgh.

Mr. Bigger was a former assistant manager of the Hotel Gettysburg and is now manager of the Piney Mountain Inn.

Map shows the political makeup of the new House of Representatives as result of the November 7 elections. Three seats still are to be decided—two in Missouri where absentee ballots are expected to decide both races and one in California. In Missouri's Sixth district, a Republican has a slight lead, while a Democrat has a slim margin in the state's Third district. A Democrat is a bit in the van in the 18th district of California. One independent was elected—in Ohio.

Riding with Russell

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
BY FREDERICK C. RUSSELL
Member S.A.E.

In life as in motordom a monkey wrench makes a mighty poor lubricant.

No Winners Here

More and more we are hearing fast highway traffic described as a rat race. It is particularly noticeable on boulevards leading into large cities between the hours of five and seven p.m., when everyone and his brother are heading for the big town to dine and be amused. Judging by some of the antics en route you'd assume many are perfectly willing to die in the attempt. Fun appears to be hard work and rough on the nerves. So we call it a rat race.

It isn't steady smooth running traffic that gives this impression but the jockeying for position among those who mistake modern transportation for a contest. The rat idea is noticeable in the efforts of owners of jalopies to keep pace with newer, better serviced cars in the passing lane. Then there are those who fall to keep a safe distance behind the car ahead and who help to contribute to the risk of telescoping when sudden stops are required. There are those who won't let others change into other lanes for making left or right exits. And not to be overlooked are those who horn to force you out of the way when you already are traveling faster than the law allows.

Time to Replace

When is a battery ready for discarding?

What the battery man does is to subject a battery to an electrical test, provided there is anything to test. This has the effect of observing the battery action in a situation comparable to operating the starter-motor. After one of these quick drains on the battery's emergency there should not be more than a .15 volt variation between any two cells.

If a battery is already discharged the shop will try charging it and then will test it. Usually a shot battery just won't take a charge.

Did You Know That

Although there are several reasons why a starter-motor may be sluggish in action high resistance in the circuit is one few motorists ever consider? Such resistance is usually found in a poor connection.

If the ignition coil is on the job, and healthy, it should be able to provide enough high tension voltage to throw a spark not less than one-quarter inch when the wire from it to the distributor is disconnected at the latter unit and held near the cylinder head?

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"When there is trouble shifting gears most motorists ask me to check the remote shift of the gears or to delve into the transmission itself, but the truth is that most of this trouble comes from the clutch which is likely dragging. Behind this is a worn rear main motor bearing or a bad retainer which is allowing engine oil to get into the clutch. Fortunately there's a simple way to test.

"Just run for about 100 yards with the car in low gear and the brakes applied enough to make the car drag. This forces the clutch to drag and to burn off some of the oil or grease that may be on it. If the gears shift into low and reverse without clashing right after this treatment the clutch is definitely the source of the trouble."

One For Your List
Another little stunt that will help to get the cold engine started quickly is keeping exposed parts as clean as possible. Wipe off the tops of the spark plugs, the distributor cap and ignition coil, and keep other adjacent parts clean. There will be less condensation on clean parts. Dirt and grease hold moisture and provide a path for the shorting of high tension current which is one of the common forms of starting delay.

Tip On Tuning Up

The experienced motor doctor knows all about this, but if you are indulging in a little tuning up and have the equipment for a bit of fire-side testing it's important to remember that compression should always be the first consideration. Here's why:

Compression isn't dependent on ignition or carburetion. You can have a mixture that's as far off as China and the cylinders will register no less or no more compression than if the mixture were perfect. Ignition also has no effect on compression. Thus if you start checking either carburetion or ignition first, you'll just be at sea regarding the true facts about the motor's condition. You might just hit the answer by accident, but the chances are that you'll miss it completely.

Well Worth Remembering

When using a vacuum gauge to check the engine's health, or lack of it, make a mental note that whenever the car is above an altitude of 2,000 feet the reading will be one inch lower for each 1,000 feet higher up.

Burned or pitted breaker points cannot be properly spaced, so either stone them or replace them.

Keep in mind, too, that points will burn if you use gasoline, kerosene, or oil to clean them.

Your Own Deluxe Model

Check over any of the special models that have been offered during the year and you'll note that accessories play the major role in special styling. Of course, there is the tricky use of color for various parts of the body, and some special ideas in body design which are beyond the scope of the average owner who tries to make over his present car, but plainly evident is the skillful use of special fittings such as twin outside rear-view mirrors, fog lights, gay slip covers, bumper guards, back-up lights, monograms, visors, special wheel covers and the like. In short, you can have your own special model at surprisingly low cost. Call it "thrifty" for short.

Slugging At Sludge

One of the best ways to keep an engine free of sludge is to drain off the oil filter frequently. Sludge will collect in the bottom of its shell. I am assuming, of course, that your car is equipped with a filter that has a drain, an arrangement which most filter men consider to be a "must."

Not all the sludge will lodge in the filter shell but the sludge problem is something we must work on diligently. Various chemical sludge removers can be used effectively, but experience suggests their use preferably as preventives. If the crankcase pan is filled with sludge it should be taken down and manually cleaned out. Chemicals might dislodge it and send it into circulation.

WHAT'S ON YOUR MIND?

O. How hot must an engine be before vapor lock begins?—H. N. L.

A. This will depend on the motor, the gas being used and the layout of the fuel lines, pump and carburetor. I have driven cars at boiling and over without trace of vapor lock, while in other instances the trouble developed at below the point where the engine seemed to be overheating.

Q. The lights on my car have a habit of failing now and again, even though the fuses do not blow and all connections appear to be tight.—Wm. L. G.

A. This looks like need for replacing the lighting switch.

Q. How can I remove the Pitman arm so as to adjust the steering gear properly. I have tried prying it and pounding it.—T. H. Jr.

A. Hold everything! You should use a puller for this job, otherwise you'll likely damage these important parts.

Q. There seems to be water dripping from the vent at the bottom of a clutch housing. Is there a chance that water is leaking out of a core plug in the block where the housing covers the rear of the motor?—H. L. G.

A. On the motor of your car there is no hidden core, so we can eliminate this possibility. Probably there is some oil working in to the clutch housing from the rear main motor bearing, and this mixes with normal water from condensation. Better put a newspaper under the car when garaging it for the night to see if this water that drips down isn't largely oil.

Q. Is it possible to have a vacuum operated aerial installed on an older car?—F. H. N.

A. Yes, this is simple enough. The question is merely whether you want to make the added investment in your present car.

Q. What would cause the ammeter pointer to wiggle incessantly? The generator has been rebuilt and the voltage regulator replaced. All wiring has been checked.—J. M. B.

A. Better check over the battery connections. If this doesn't provide an answer I would have a mechanic use a test ammeter in the circuit.

Q. What would cause the differential case to fill up with lubricant? Every few weeks I have to drain the excess.—N. M. K.

A. This is working down the enclosed torque tube around the propeller shaft from the transmission. A service job on the universals and tube is indicated.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern street, West Hartford 7, Conn., and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply. There is no charge.

East Berlin

East Berlin—Mrs. Harry Cooley is able to be about again after a serious attack of bronchitis which confined her to bed for two weeks.

Mrs. Floyd Hoffman, with her husband and son, Jacques, were recently entertained by her aunt, Mrs. Henry Martin, Hanover.

Mrs. Homer S. Bloodworth, formerly Miss Betty J. Lerew, has accepted a clerical position at the airport at Poquonock Bridge, Conn., where she is living while her husband is stationed with the navy in that area. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul P. Draft Evaders Will Go To Armed Forces

Philadelphia, Nov. 11 (AP)—Uncle Sam wants draft evaders in the Armed Forces where they are needed, not in jail for violating the Selective Service Law, says Assistant U.S. District Attorney Edward A. Kallick.

Kallick made the remark yesterday in announcing U.S. Commissioner Henry P. Carr had issued warrants for the arrest of 12 men who failed to answer the call for induction in Philadelphia.

Convicted violators face possible prison sentences of five years and fines of $10,000 each.

his wife and son, Jeffrey, Avella.

Mrs. Ida Hammond, Philadelphia, formerly of R. 2, was a visitor with local friends during the week.

Kenneth Klinedinst, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart E. Klinedinst, who has been in the army for some time and has seen extensive action for the last few months in Korea where he was wounded, has been released from the hospital and is now spending some time with his parents. He is able to be about.

Mrs. Herbert R. Ebersole, R. 1, who was severely injured when she fell down a stairway at her home and who spent several days at the Warner hospital, has returned home and is improving satisfactorily.

Rosedale, Calif., Nov. 11 (AP)—A gust of wind blew a bee into the window of Mrs. Margaret K. Steward's automobile. The bee stung her in the eye, crash into the parked car. Officers And the same wind blew her dressestimated the combined damage at up over her head, reducing visibility$500.

This, the 21-year-old housewife told police yesterday, caused her to crash into the parked car. Officers And the same wind blew her dressestimated the combined damage at up over her head, reducing visibility$500.

Training Needed, Says Col. Arnold: The vital importance of training in discipline and courage and the development of the moral fiber of the individual in the preparation of the defense of our nation was stressed this morning in an Armistice Day address before the Gettysburg high school student body by Lt. Col. E. G. Arnold.

On the platform with the speaker were a score of members of the Albert J. Lentz post No. 202, of the American Legion who sponsored the Armistice Day program for the high school.

John Hewitt Named Head of Legion Club: John W. Hewitt was elected president of the Last Man's club of the American Legion at the organization's second annual banquet, held Saturday evening at Cross Keys Inn. Seventy-eight members attended with the retiring president, Horace E. Smiley, presiding.

The other officers named are: Vice president, George W. Boehner; secretary, Frank J. Slonaker; treasurer, Albert Cardenti; historian, William H. Allison, and chaplain, Lloyd C. Keefe, re-elected.

The guest speaker was Lt. Col. E. G. Arnold, Gettysburg college ROTC commandant.

Wallick-Bollinger: Dennis Stavelly Wallick, son of Emanuel Wallick, Littlestown, and Mildred Louisa Bollinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bollinger, Taneytown, Md., were united in marriage in St. John's Lutheran church parsonage, Littlestown, on Saturday at 7 p.m. The single ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Kenneth D. James.

468 Electoral Votes Sweep Roosevelt into Office: (By the Associated Press). President Roosevelt, the precedent breaker, smashed one of America's most ancient traditions with a dramatic and sweeping victory in his battle for a third term.

His election was conceded in mid-morning by Wendell L. Willkie, his dogged, hard-hitting Republican opponent, who had made the third term question one of the two outstanding issues of a slambang campaign.

Baughner, Haines and Crider Win: More than 15,000 Adams county voters went to the polls on Tuesday and gave a county majority of 1,255 to Wendell L. Willkie and slightly smaller majorities to all other candidates, with the exception of S. Luther Baitley, GOP candidate for Adams county's only seat in the lower house of the state legislature, who was decisively defeated by George L. Baughner.

Adams countians helped select Paul M. Crider, Esq., Chambersburg, to the state Senate from the Adams-Franklin district and gave Congressman Chester H. Gross a majority of 578 over his successful Democratic opponent, Harry L. Haines.

Establishes Dairy Ranch in County: Charles B. Spicer, Esq., of Harlan, Ky., has purchased four adjoining farms in the vicinity of Heidelberg, when total about 800 acres. He is engaged in converting the combined properties into a modern dairy ranch on which he will keep a herd of more than 100 purebred Ayrshire dairy cattle.

The farms, which were purchased to make up the ranch, include the one of Paul Spicer, Curtis Houck, Harry Miller and John C. Blaine.

George Stock and Beatrice Weaver Wed in New Oxford: Private George Stock, of the state motor police at Hershey, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Stock, North Stratton street, and Miss Beatrice Weaver, daughter of Mrs. Mamie Weaver, New Oxford, were united in marriage Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, in St. Mary's Catholic church in New Oxford. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. Paul Weaver, an uncle of the bride.

Miss Bernice Weaver, a twin sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and Joseph Ellis served as best man. Bernard Stock and William Weaver were the ushers.

GOING, GOING—GONE!

There is a cross section of human life portrayed in auction sales, no matter where they are held. I have visited them in out-of-the-way farming districts and those in the big city auction rooms. They are always interesting, out a note of sadness clouds them all, with a fog of memories.

An old rocking chair that had served for many a year and rocked many a baby to its rest and peace—"Ah, that gentleman over there—sold for a dollar and a quarter!" Little things, many a keepsake, but each one significant at some time or other. Perhaps a death, or the breaking up of a home after all the "chicks" had hatched and gone to other parts. A segment of life.

Pictures, books, furniture, jewelry—they all pass in parade in the auction room. Illustrations of more opulent days. "Why, ladies and gentlemen, it is a crime for such a work of art to be sold at such a price. In this very room, a year ago, it was sold for three times the price you now offer. It is a bargain at four times that price. Over there. Thank you. You recall what the poet Keats once wrote: 'A thing of beauty is a joy forever.' Thank you, thank you. Last call. Sold to the gentleman in the rear."

I have witnessed great libraries of rare books sold, the paintings of the masters, and those by noted artists, as well as the furnishings of homes, that were once the scenes of gaiety and renown—only later to be auctioned off to the highest bidder. And each time I have left the auction room with the fact in mind that none of us have any permanent hold on anything but our faith. Our possessions are transient things, mere loans, later to be dispensed or scattered to other temporary overseers.

There is one thing however, that can be both held and passed on, and that is the love and enjoyment that our temporary possessions have given to us, and with which we have been forever enriched. That which we have treasured in our heart never leaves us. Many a treasure now in my possession still holds the finger prints of love that some one else placed there. And I have added mine—to enrich it!

DISAPPOINTED GOLFERS

Now the disappointed golfers who began in early spring by announcing with the summer every club they'd learn to swing.

Close their lockers for the winter where the moths can eat their shirts.

They are suffering golfers' anguish and it's plain to see it hurts.

Hope refused to keep its promise. Many a putt has missed the cup.

Not for lack of friendly counsel, but the habit: Looking up.

And the scores they vowed to lower near the hundred count remained.

For a reason very simple: Still by wishing isn't gained.

The drives for length intended shortened were by hook or slice.

Didn't practice what was told them, wouldn't take the pro's advice.

So they had a dismal summer: "Oh their game!" the season through.

Now the snow is on the fairways they may read a book or two.

I shall meet them in the springtime and shall smile to hear them say

"Just watch out for us this season. In the seventies we'll play."

We'll make scores that will amaze you," but I'm betting that they don't.

For "amazing scores" take practice, and I know those fellows' word.

PHONE STRIKE
WILL EXTEND
OVER WEEKEND

New York, Nov. 11.—It appears certain today that the partial coast-to-coast telephone strike will continue over the week-end. It now is in its third day.

The first federal peace talks failed yesterday after only one of several pay and contract issues was discussed. No new joint session was planned before tomorrow afternoon.

At the same time, the striking QIO communications workers of America started a new system of "hit-and-run" picketing aimed at causing the greatest possible confusion in the huge Bell system.

It was designed to keep the company from mobilizing clerks and supervisors fast enough to handle the struck jobs at any one place.

Effects Spotty
The national effect of the strike was spotty, and varied widely from city to city. The greatest sufferers were the long distance service and areas with manual telephone exchanges—both requiring direct operators.

Automatic dial service, which includes about 70 per cent of the nation's phones, was not affected at once. If the strike lasts long enough, however, wear and tear and breakdowns could cut into the dial system. The maintenance men of Bell's subsidiary Western Electric Co., responsible for installation and repair, are the principle CWA division on strike.

The union said yesterday that of its nearly 300,000 members, 33,000 were actually on strike and another 37,000 were honoring the picket lines—a total of 120,000 out of work.

Want Higher Wages
The company estimated that two-thirds of its national service was normal, and the remainder spotty. CWA divisions are striking in all but five New England states.

The main quarrel is a 13-month dispute between Western Electric and CWA's maintenance division 6 and distributing division 18. The two principal issues are pay rates and contract duration. The company has repeatedly offered an 11-cent hourly increase to wages now averaging $1.55 to $1.82 per hour, and wants the pay agreement to last 18 months.

The union has demanded an unspecified but "substantially" higher increase, and a one-year agreement.

New Oxford—John E. George, R. 2, proprietor of the Cross Keys Dining east of town who fractured a vertebra last week when he fell from a horse while participating in the community Halloween parade, has been placed in a cast at the Warner hospital where he was taken after the accident.

A group of the younger women of the Rosary society of the local Catholic church are beginning preparations for a public card party at the parochial hall on Wednesday evening, November 29.

Mrs. Mabel Hedges, Bridgehampton, Long Island, N. Y., is a house guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester E. Loper, near Pine Run. Mr. Loper's mother, Mrs. Emily G. Hutson, who has spent several months with her, has returned to her home at Cooperstown, N. Y.

Men of the Holy Name society of the local Catholic church are completing preparations for the public benefit party to be conducted on Wednesday evening at the parochial hall.

Robert Lemmon, who moved several months ago to the Hanover area from Pine Run, expects to return to this section before long, having bought the Gebhart farm near the Carlisle Pike as his future residence.

The annual nocturnal adoration, conducted even year at the local Catholic church by men of the Holy Name society to pray for a just peace and the improvement of conditions throughout the world, will take place again this year by permission of Bishop George L. Leach of the Harrisburg diocese. The night designated is Sunday, beginning with Benediction at the evening service, after which different groups of the men will each spend an hour in prayer at the church throughout the night until mass the following morning.

H. Berkheimer in St. John's Evangelical-Reformed church, in McKnightstown.

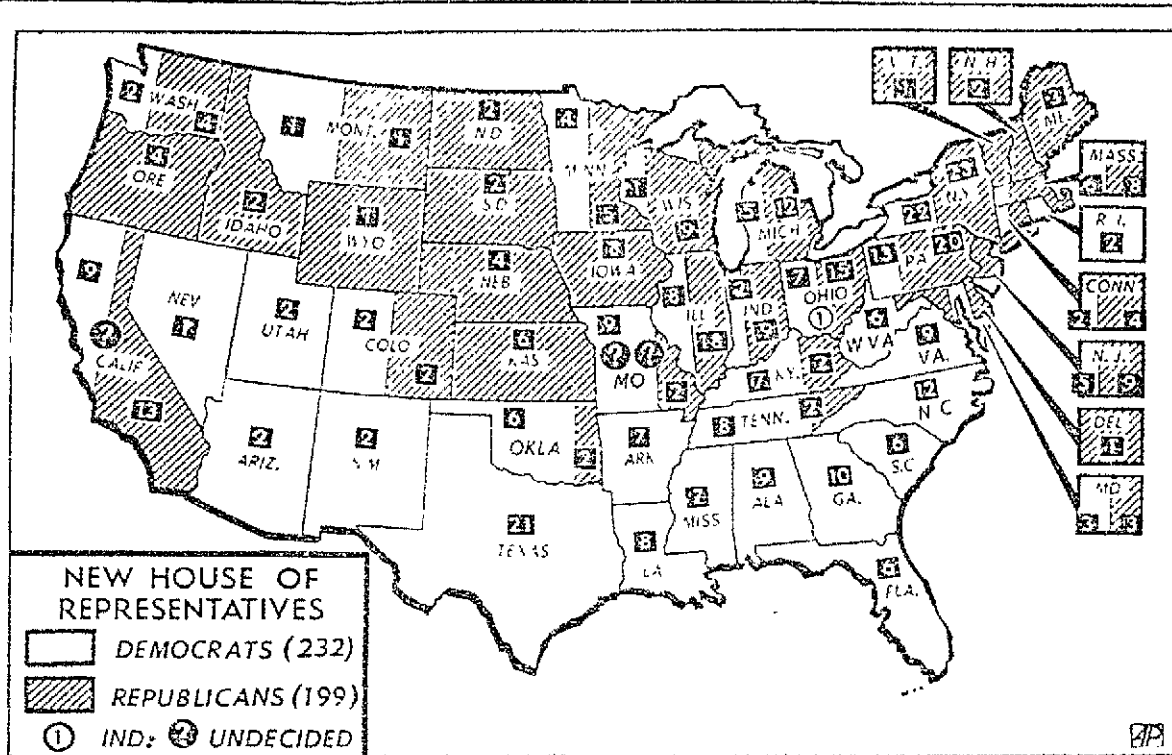

Mr. Ketterman is employed on the W. W. Boyer fruit farm, near McKnightstown. The others were Harold Robert and David Robert.

Capt. Hershey Ordered to Duty: Captain Richard Hershey, of the Gettysburg National park, Wednesday, received telegraphic orders to report for active duty on Monday at Fort Belvoir, Va.

Fire Mt. Inn Manager to Wed in Pittsburgh: Announcements have been received in Gettysburg of the approaching marriage of Robert H. Bigger and Miss Mary Virginia West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee C. West, of Pittsburgh.

The wedding will take place in Pittsburgh on November 13 and a reception will follow at the Roosevelt hotel, Pittsburgh.

Mr. Bigger was a former assistant manager of the Hotel Gettysburg and is now manager of the Piney Mountain Inn.

Map shows the political makeup of the new House of Representatives as result of the November 7 elections. Three seats still are to be decided—two in Missouri where absentee ballots are expected to decide both races and one in California. In Missouri's Sixth district, a Republican has a slight lead, while a Democrat has a slim margin in the state's Third district. A Democrat is a bit in the van in the 18th district of California. One independent was elected—in Ohio.

The RANGE DOCTOR

by OSCAR J. FRIEND

Chapter 28

At three o'clock in the morning the Texas Tommy was silent and dark. The gambling casino was closed and locked. The windows of Overstreet's living quarters were tightly shuttered, the doors were barred. Not a ray of light escaped the sumptuous chamber.

But the gambler had not retired. Fully dressed, he was pacing his Persian carpet with a savage unrest. Secure in his privacy, the mask had slipped from his inscrutable face, revealing features drawn in agony. His black hair had been worried by his nervous fingers until it had lost its customary sleekness.

He paused occasionally in his L-shaped pacing to pour himself a tiny glass of brandy from a slowly emptying decanter on the taboret, sipping off the liquor at a single gulp, he resumed his striding back and forth. Once he halted beside the chess table and stared gloomily at the board. If ever Dr. Logan had suffered remorse over the death of the veterinary, this strange man was damping himself for all eternity.

Again and again he went over the steps of his downfall, the developments of the past few months marching through his mind in stark review. How had he erred? How could he have changed the course of events? He found no loophole. The final bitter sacrifice, once having set his feet on the path chosen, had been inevitable.

He cursed the hour he had first gone to Friole Flats in his honest attempt to investigate the Pelham murders. If only he had not gone. If only Griggsby had assumed the avenger role and killed the three murderers before that catastrophic visit. For it was in Friole Flats that he had met John Naylor on an equal footing, and an evil idea had been born between them. Nothing less than the removal of Charles Hohner—who deserved to die—and the taking over of the land company on a fifty-fifty partnership basis.

But regrets, like good intentions, were vain. There was nothing for it now but to keep on until the string was played out. He poured another thimbleful of brandy and gazed sardonically down at the chessboard.

Once, with flawless clarity, he had analyzed his own character for Griggsby over a chess game. Definitely committed to a certain course, he sacrificed ruthlessly to win an objective. In the present crisis of realities he had done the same. He had won only what he had before teaming up with Naylor, and at what a price!

He laughed aloud, and there was crystal bitterness in the sound. He would have given his hope of heaven to recall that fatal partnership. He halted again, ran both hands through his hair with a despairing gesture, and seized like brandy decanter. A knock on the alley door startled him.

"Who's there?" he called.

"It's Dr. Logan," the voice of the physician answered him.

An impenetrable mask settled over the gambler's features. His hand steepled, and he smoothed his hair. With a firm step he went to the door and opened it.

For a moment doctor and gambler stood face to face. Both were pale and haggard, both were weary, but burning blue eyes met burning black eyes in a long dynamic glance.

"Back so soon from Friole Flats?" Overstreet broke the silence in surprise. "Come in. I hardly expected you before morning."

Satchel in hand, Logan crossed the threshold and advanced into the room while Overstreet closed and barred the door. The doctor walked past the chess table and turned to face the gambler across it.

"Sit down," Overstreet invited, "while I pour you a drink."

"I want nothing, thanks," Logan declined, sitting behind the table and placing his satchel between his knees. "I have bad news for you, Overstreet."

"You were unsuccessful?"

"We were signally successful. We took Friole Flats without firing a shot. We recovered all the loot of the robberies."

"Good. Tell me about it. Did you find Griggsby?"

"Yes. Is d'Auberg still missing?"

"Yes, he is. Why do you ask?"

"Sit opposite me, Overstreet," Logan said, indicating the board with his left hand, his right remaining in his lap. "I can illustrate better by using these men."

Overstreet shrugged and took the opposite chair.

"A chessboard can be likened to a map—a sort of battlefield," Logan went on, leaning forward. "It can also represent the checkered lives of people."

Overstreet frowned slightly. "True, but what has that to do with Pierre d'Auberg?"

The hanging lamp overhead shed a soft, mellow glow which relieved the weary lines in the doctor's face and pinked the pallid features of the gambler.

"I'll open by moving my king's pawn to king four," Logan said, moving the piece with his left hand.

"The king's gambit," Overstreet murmured.

"Yes. That can represent the coming of the Hohner land company to the Horseshoe Range. Will you make the logical countermove?"

Overstreet obliged with a duplicating move of the black king's pawn.

"That," said Logan, "is symbolic of your meeting with John Naylor at Friole Flats."

a long space the two men stared into each other's eyes. An expression of disbelief flicked across Overstreet's face and was gone.

"You're lying," he said. "You're not even armed."

"Being armed is no protection against your derringer draw, Overstreet. I have had you covered under the table ever since you sat down."

The gambler looked as far into Logan's lap as the table edge permitted. All he could see was the end of the doctor's gaping satchel. He raised his eyes and met Logan's steady gaze. He read implacable purpose in those burning blue eyes, and he knew they had come to the end of the road.

"I see," he said calmly. "I understand—everything. You carry your guns in your satchel."

"I do, but I'm giving you an even break. I know how fast you are with your trick pistols, and you can't miss at this range. If you're ready, draw and die like a man instead of a dog!"

The play was ended, and Overstreet accepted the fact. He shrugged—and at this time his deadly little guns appeared magically in his hands. He fired across the table top even as the butts slapped into his palms, and twin streaks of flame darted towards the doctor's head.

Logan did not move. There was a bitter little smile about his lips as he invited death. But, coincident with the gambler's shrug, he squeezed the trigger of the long-barreled 38 he held between his knees. The slug tore into his adversary's vitals, blasting him back in his chair just as Overstreet fired his own derringers.

By a scant margin this deflected that deadly aim. One bullet broke Logan's collarbone. The other ploughed along a rib and buried itself in the back of the doctor's chair.

Neither man fired again, each sure the other was mortally wounded. Like marionettes they sat there staring into each other's eyes. Wispes of gun-smoke curled fantastically up between them to caress with gentle, almost timid touch the base of the hanging lamp overhead.

Logan's gun thudded to the carpet along with his gaping satchel. Overstreet's hands dropped leadenly to his sides, the muzzles of his short guns kissing the silken nap of the rug. It was a grim scene, but somehow both men looked happier. The tragic expression was lifting from the gambler's face; the stony bitterness was melting from the bleak features of the doctor.

It was three days before Logan made a complete return to consciousness. During this period of alternate deep sleep and delirium there were occasional semi-lucid intervals when he became hazily aware of his surroundings. He spent hours adrift on a billowing sea, he was lashed to a stake in the midst of savage Indians, there was snow on the ground with a church steeple in the distance behind stately trees.

He revisited patients he thought he had cured, he lived over scenes with Griggsby and Overstreet, he mingled again with people he had known and persons he had killed. And over it all there presided a strange man with white hair, wrinkled cheeks, and bright, bird-like eyes.

On the third day he became fully awake to find himself in one of Judge Steele's bedrooms on a huge leather bed with a white counterpane. The snow and church and trees resolved themselves into a large picture beyond the foot of his bed. The recurrent but not unbearable nagging pains in his chest brought to his attention that his left arm had been neatly bandaged across his breast.

The door opened softly, and the white-headed man with the bird-like eyes came in. He was a stocky little man with a brisk, professional manner.

"Ah!" he beamed at sight of the patient's open eyes. "How do you feel, Dr. Logan?"

"As well as could be expected, I guess," Logan answered weakly. "I didn't think to wake up here."

"You're doing nicely," said the energetic little man, feeling his forehead and counting his pulse. "I'm Dr. James from Clearwater. They sent for me the day before yesterday. You've got a broken left clavicle and all the cartilage gouged off the sixth rib, but you'll be as good as new in a few weeks. You need rest as much as anything. You've been wearing yourself out. Feel strong enough to have a little company?"

"Day before yesterday?" Logan croaked hoarsely.

MORE ABOUT SUGAR MAPLES

After reading a recent article in this column about growing sugar maple trees, one of our regular farm readers writes the editor to ask three questions which should prove important to all readers. They are:

1. Is it advisable to plant sugar maples in the home grounds for shade trees?

2. Can this tree be grown for future sugar and sirup roles in orchards, like apple and other fruit trees?

3. At what age is this tree old enough or large enough to tap?

Of course, in all three of these questions the writer has in mind the use of trees for producing sap for sugar and sirup manufacture.

Like most other hardwood species of maple, the sugar maple makes an excellent shade tree. It develops into a well rounded and spreading crown where it enjoys plenty of room. It thrives in the deeply mellow and fertile loam found in most lawns and along highways. However, it is not a poor-land tree and will not do well as a street tree or in other locations where the soil is hard and rooting space is limited.

Individual sugar maple trees in shade and ornamental roles usually produce sap in quantities comparable to trees growing under ideal forest conditions. Too, tapping does not in any manner impair the shade and ornamental merits of such specimens.

The advisability of planting sugar maple trees in solid blocks depends on several factors, prominent among which is the type of land. Usually this tree is found in native stands of timber or where small groups have been saved when forest land was originally cleared. But in all phases of planning sugar maple planting it is important to remember that trees should be located where a natural carpeting of leaves can be maintained. A liberally spread ground cover is necessary to promote tree health and a profitable flow of sap. For this reason it is never advisable to pasture forests where sugar maples are kept for tapping.

If the land is suited for growing timber trees it may be wise to interplant sugar maples with other desirable species and genera. Or sugar maples may be set into nooks throughout old woodlands where a leafmold is maintained. But this aim to give the tree an environment where the roots enjoy maximum sap-producing benefits should not deter potential growers from planting individual trees in the home grounds, along highways and fence rows and in other idle areas where leaf accumulations cannot be maintained.

The age at which a sugar maple tree can be tapped is difficult to determine. Better as a guide is the size of the tree. Most growers believe it is not injurious to tap a tree when it measures 6 inches in trunk diameter at waist height. In many cases earlier tapping has been practiced with no apparent harm resulting. Inasmuch as the tap hole is not made deeper than 1 1/2 to 2 inches, tree size need not be considerable to obtain a fair yield of sap.

Readers are invited to write the editor to ask all the further questions they desire on this subject. A self-addressed stamped envelope will be appreciated.

EMPHASIS ON CROP YIELDS

Bordering closely on the unbelievable is the historical fact that the

American people have been and still are passing through an era when farm productive efficiency is looked upon as some sort of minor catastrophe. Repeatedly is heard from academic "experts" on agriculture, most of whom are in government positions of authority, that "regulations and unfavorable weather" reduced production in so-and-so regions. In other words, there is a ready tendency to associate farm prosperity with economic transgression. Actual reduction of vital foods at their source is strangely deemed an agrarian virtue, whether it results from Federal edicts or unfavorable weather.

Civilized man or that portion of mankind which grows and otherwise manages its food production has never been able to beat back the scourging powers of starvation. History is really a record of one major famine after another across the face of the earth ever since human beings began to keep written records of their vicissitudes and accomplishments. The countries where famine takes its smallest tolls are invariably those where crop yields and crop acreage are maintained at the maximum of human possibilities and operative efficiency.

We in the United States are not beyond the pale of potential famine. Since 1925 our farms have not produced enough food to supply our domestic requirements. Our national dependence on the farms of foreign lands has been mounting year after year. Only selfish or ignorant politicians turn from this indisputable fact. Only the most impractical of academic dreamers, mad with ambitions for governmental power through the channel of "regulation," deny it.

An amazing comparison of how sadly our acreage yields trail behind those of some other countries is found by examining the yields of the more crowded yet older countries of Europe. Last year (1949), for example, 18 nations, all but two of them in Europe, produced a total of 1,026,400,000 bushels of wheat at an average of 28.2 bushels per acre. The United States produced 1,146,463,000 bushels at an average rate of only 14.9 bushels per acre. In terms of labor, seed, fertilizer, equipment and general investment, United States farmers cultivated and harvested from approximately 77 million acres to gain their wheat crop while the 18 other nations with almost the same total yield handled only a little more than 36 million acres.

The same story is told in other bread grains and particularly in the predominant food crop of potatoes. The practical farmer wants to know the reasons why land in most of the older countries of the world, especially those in crowded Europe where the land has been under cultivation many centuries longer than the newer lands of this continent, can out-yield our farms.

There are four major reasons. First, farmers of most progressive nations are not handicapped with the theory that it is a "crime" to be productively efficient. Next, they do not "mine" their land by failing to return as much fertility each year as their crops remove. Third, they carefully save and incorporate into their soil all the humus procurable. And they use commercial fertilizer at higher rates than American farmers do. This last fact should not by any stretch of the imagination be interpreted as a recommendation that increased use of chemical fertilizers will bring our acre yields up to those of many of our competitive nations.

PREPARE FOR BLUEBERRIES

On top of rapidly growing popularity for their luscious goodness and heavy production habits, blueberries are gaining additional laurels for their easy storage by quick-freeze methods. Indicative of this trend, the editor has received in the last year more inquiries about how to grow this improved berry than has come to his desk since the fruit was introduced several years ago.

Five facts are stressed for beginners who want to grow blueberries:

1. The soil must be acid—the plants will die in an alkaline soil.
2. At least two varieties should be grown near each other to provide proper cross-pollination.
3. Soil should be made ready before winter to facilitate early March planting.

4. Growers who plan to grow this fruit eventually on a commercial scale should start with a rather small planting to permit adjustment of soils and methods to the crop's requirements.

5. Prospective growers should write the editor to ask all the questions necessary to iron out all doubtful points before planting time arrives.

The improved blueberry—sometimes called huckleberry with a college education—is perhaps the most important contribution to civilized man's food crops ever attained. Other crops have come to us and been improved, such as the soybean for example. But the blueberry was carefully crossbred from the small native huckleberry and the result is a fruit so remarkably superior in size, texture and flavor that its resemblances to parent strains are but meager.

Most failures with this fruit to date can be traced to lack of acid soils. As persons who have picked native huckleberries will remember, these berries were always found in native forests and woodland where the soil was strongly acid from decades of decaying vegetation. The blueberry has inherited this trait. One of the best ways to render alkaline garden soils acid where blueberry plants are to set next spring is to substitute woods loam for the present soil or mix enough acid leaf-mold with the present soil to make it adequately acid. This should be done before winter.

Ornamental plant growers know and practice this in the culture of rhododendrons. They know this broadleaf evergreen requires acid soils, so they work leafmold from an old forest into the soil and thereafter mulch the shrub with oak leaves every year to maintain acidity.

Artificially alkaline soils may be made and kept acid for blueberries by applications of sulphur or aluminum sulphate. Both must be applied

York Springs

York Springs—Mrs. Latham Brown, formerly Miss Virginia A. Gise, has received word from her husband, who has been seeing extensive action in Korea, that he was recently promoted to first lieutenant and is recovering from his wound. Lieut. and Mrs. Brown recently became the parents of a daughter, Kathy Virginia.

Mrs. Harold A. Smith is convalescing at her home after a serious illness which kept her at the Warner hospital for about a month. Mrs. Smith was a hospital patient for most of last winter after she suffered a heart attack while driving her car.

William M. Lott, near here, remains under treatment for an injury to an eye which was struck by a pellet on the first day of the hunting season.

Mrs. Ida Hammond, Philadelphia, has been spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Ernest E. King, near here, who is recovering from a serious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Hershey, Pittsburgh, recently visited here and were joined by a number of friends and relatives, including their son, Capt. Charles G. Hershey, Jr., and family, Washington, D. C.

AWAITS OFFICIAL COUNT

Philadelphia, Nov. 11 (AP)—Maurice Osser, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 3rd district, will await the outcome of the official count of ballots next Tuesday to be sure the Republican incumbent, Hardie Scott, defeated him by 116 votes. A suit in behalf of Osser to impound registration commission records was dropped yesterday. The action came during argument before Judge Vincent A. Carroll in elections court.

Littlestown WOMAN'S CLUB PLANS MEETING

The Woman's Community club of Littlestown will hold its monthly meeting on Wednesday evening at 7.45 p.m. in the P.O.S. of A. hall. An educational program will be presented and the film "Sixth Chair" will be shown. The program committee in charge will be: Mrs. Walter F. Crouse, chairman, Mrs. John Riley, Mrs. George Bemiller, Mrs. Edwin Staley, Mrs. Ralph Staley, Mrs. Gilbert Royston, Mrs. Charles Benner and Mrs. Dewey Strevig. The hostess committee is composed of: Mrs. Wilbur Bankert, Mrs. Roy Renner, Mrs. Monroe Stavelly, Mrs. Charles Fissel, Mrs. Naomi Schwartz, Mrs. Charles Held and Mrs. Edward Brown.

The Alta Hummer Missionary society will march in a body to the annual Thankoffering service at St. John's Lutheran church, at 10:15 Sunday morning. The ladies decided at their monthly meeting held at the home of Mrs. Edwin L. Harget, Littlestown R. 1, on Thursday evening that they would meet in the Sunday school room immediately following the church school session to go to the Thankoffering service.

The missionary meeting opened with group singing. Miss Evelyn Asper, leader, read the scripture, taken from the 145th Psalm, followed by a prayer by Mrs. Kenneth D. James. A hymn was sung by the group. Topic discussion was led by Miss Asper. The topic was, "Magazine Talk" and a magazine quiz was conducted after the discussion. Prayers concerning the topic were offered by: Mrs. Katherine Hull, Mrs. Alvin Groit, Mrs. Preston Myers and Mrs. William Lipsey. The missionary benediction was repeated. Mrs. Paul E. King, president, was in charge of the business session. Mrs. Samuel Renner, secretary, gave a report followed by roll call. A report on the annual convention of the West-Pennsylvania synods of the United Lutheran churches of America held October 17 at St. David's church, York, was given by Mrs. Dale Stary. Two guest packages were presented, one by Mrs. Preston Myers and the other one by Mrs. Sylvester Rickrode. They were received by Mrs. Paul King and Mrs. Preston Myers. A Christmas party will be the form of the next meeting held December 14 at the home of Mrs. Paul E. King, along the Littlestown-Taneytown road. Mrs. Paul Bowers will be the leader at this meeting.

School announcements and report cards were issued to the students of Littlestown Junior-Senior high school this week. The assembly program next Wednesday will be in charge of Miss Dorothy Crabbs. It will deal with American Education Week.

In observance of American Education Week a display has been put in the show window of the former Clinton L. Mehling estate. The display features some 1,850 books and some new books for comparison. There are also some "old fashioned" desks, used by teachers and pupils. There are pictures drawn by the pupils of the Littlestown Junior-Senior high school. The display is under the supervision of Rodney Law, art teacher of the Littlestown grade and high schools.

Funeral services for John T. Stainer, 71, Westminster R. 1, who died Wednesday afternoon at his home were held today at 10:30 a.m. at the J. W. Little and Son funeral home, Maple avenue, Littlestown Rev. Charles A. Price, Walkersville, Md., former pastor of St. Mary's Reformed church, Silver Run, officiated. Interment in the Union cemetery, Silver Run. Pallbearers were: Charles Crowl, Joseph Brown, William Hesson, Sr., Edward Plunkert, Donald Weller and William Hesson, Jr.

Burial services for Andrew P. Halter, 55, who died at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Crouse, West King street, Littlestown, Thursday, were held today at the J. W. Little and Son funeral home, Maple avenue, Littlestown, at 2 p.m. Services were in charge of the Rev. Kenneth D. James, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church, Littlestown. Interment was in Mt. Carmel cemetery, Littlestown. Pallbearers were: Paul Hollinger, Harvey Wildasin, Luther Hankey, Fred Blocher, Kenneth Sparver and Bernard Selby.

BOOK WEEK TO

thing an adult can do for a child is to teach him to teach himself. Culture makes a man master of himself and consequently equipped to face life. Development in a child of the priceless habit of reading books that have the salt of life in them—colors, adventure, facts, humor, understanding, beauty and good taste—will eventually make him aware of values and capable of selecting the finest for himself.

Children's book week began in 1915 when Franklin K. Matthews, a resident of New Jersey, and chief librarian for the Boy Scouts of America, started checking the type of literature read by youngsters in the various cities to which he traveled.

His findings were depressing both as to quality and quantity and he decided to make reading part of the Boy Scout program. He printed a list of books for boys and persuaded book stores to devote one week in November to the promotion of boys' reading. From this the idea of National Book Week spread.

By 1921 the American Library association had become interested and the National Book Week received national recognition. As part of the National Book Week program publishing houses were urged to interest themselves in producing better children's books and a medal was awarded annually to the author of the best child's book of each year and to the best illustrator of children's books. As an example of the increased interest in producing better children's books, Mrs. Snyder said, in 1941 only one American publishing house had a special editor for children's books. Today there are well over 50.

As a feature of National Book Week, the local library is presenting

Rent Ceilings Near Atterbury Unlikely

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—Chances for general imposition of rent ceilings in the area around Camp Atterbury, Ind., do not look good, the housing expediter's office said today.

Two months ago Col. James A. Murphy, the camp commander, asked for rent controls within a 50-mile radius of the camp. He pointed to the big influx of families into the area after the Pennsylvania 28th National Guard Division was assigned there for training. But a spokesman for the expediter's office said that many local county officials in the area feel that little can be accomplished by control measures. He also said that imposing rent control would involve a very complicated procedure.

WOMAN'S CLUB

PLANS MEETING

The Woman's Community club of Littlestown will hold its monthly meeting on Wednesday evening at 7:45 p.m. in the P.O.S. of A. hall. An educational program will be presented and the film "Sixth Chair" will be shown. The program committee in charge will be: Mrs. Walter F. Crouse, chairman, Mrs. John Riley, Mrs. George Bemiller, Mrs. Edwin Staley, Mrs. Ralph Staley, Mrs. Gilbert Royston, Mrs. Charles Benner and Mrs. Dewey Strevig. The hostess committee is composed of: Mrs. Wilbur Bankert, Mrs. Roy Renner, Mrs. Monroe Staley, Mrs. Charles Fissel, Mrs. Naomi Schwartz, Mrs. Charles Held and Mrs. Edward Brown.

The Alta Hummer Missionary society will march in a body to the annual Thankoffering service at St. John's Lutheran church, at 10:15 Sunday morning. The ladies decided at their monthly meeting held at the home of Mrs. Edwin L. Harget, Littlestown R. 1, on Thursday evening that they would meet in the Sunday school room immediately following the church school session to go to the Thankoffering service.

The missionary meeting opened with group singing. Miss Evelyn Asper, leader, read the scripture, taken from the 145th Psalm, followed by a prayer by Mrs. Kenneth D. James. A hymn was sung by the group. Topic discussion was led by Miss Asper. The topic was "Magazine Talk" and a magazine quiz was conducted after the discussion.

The RANGE DOCTOR

by OSCAR J. FRIEND

Chapter 28

At three o'clock in the morning the Texas Tommy was silent and dark. The gambling casino was closed and looked. The windows of Overstreet's living quarters were tightly shuttered, the doors were barred. Not a ray of light escaped the sumptuous chamber.

But the gambler and not retired. Fully dressed, he was pacing his Persian carpet with a savage unrest. Secure in his privacy, the mask had slipped from his inscrutable face, revealing features drawn in agony. His black hair had been worried by his nervous fingers until it had lost its customary sleekness.

He paused occasionally in his feverish pacing to pour himself a tiny glass of brandy from a slowly emptying decanter on the table. Tossing off the liquor at a single gulp, he resumed his striding back and forth. Once he halted beside the chess table and stared gloomily at the board. If ever Dr. Logan had suffered remorse over the death of the veterinarian, this strange man was damning himself for all eternity.

Again and again he went over the steps of his downfall, the developments of the past few months marching through his mind in stark review. How had he erred? How could he have changed the course of events? He found no loophole. The final bitter sacrifice, once having set his feet on the path chosen, had been inevitable.

He cursed the hour he had first gone to Friole Flats in his honest attempt to investigate the Pelham murders. If only he had not gone. If only Griggsby had assumed the avenger role and killed the three murderers before that catastrophic visit. For it was in Friole Flats that he had met John Naylor on an equal footing, and an evil idea had been born between them. Nothing less than the removal of Charles Hohner—who deserved to die—and the taking over of the land company on a fifty-fifty partnership basis.

But regrets, like good intentions, were vain. There was nothing for it now but to keep on until the string was played out. He poured another thimbleful of brandy and gazed sardonically down at the chessboard.

Once, with flawless clarity, he had analyzed his own character for Griggsby over a chess game. Definitely committed to a certain course, he sacrificed ruthlessly to win an objective. In the present crisis of realities he had done the same. He had won only what he had before teaming up with Naylor, and at what a price!

He laughed aloud, and there was crystal bitterness in the sound. He would have given his hope of heaven to recall that fatal partnership. He halted again, ran both hands through his hair, with a despairing gesture, and seized the brandy decanter. A knock on the alley door startled him. "Who's there?" he called.

"It's Dr. Logan," the voice of the physician answered him.

An impenetrable mask settled over the gambler's features. His hand steepled, and he smoothed his hair. With a firm step he went to the door and opened it.

For a moment doctor and gambler stood face to face. Both were pale and haggard, both were weary, but burning blue eyes met burning black eyes in a long dynamic glance.

"Back so soon from Friole Flats?" Overstreet broke the silence in surprise. "Come in. I hardly expected you before morning."

Satchel in hand, Logan crossed the threshold and advanced into the room while Overstreet closed and barred the door. The doctor walked past the chess table and turned to face the gambler across it.

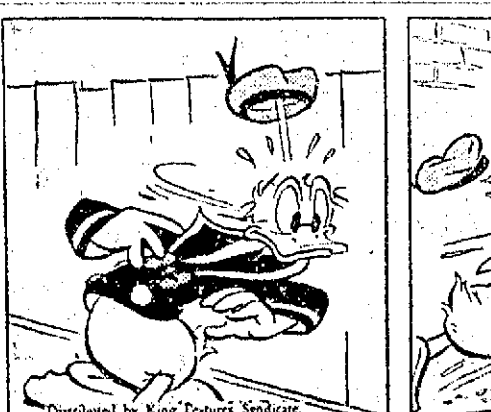

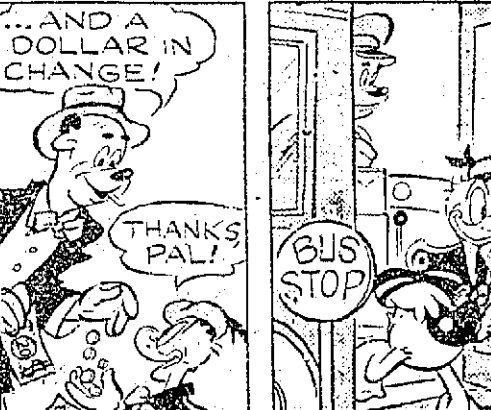

"Sit down," Overstreet invited, "while I pour you a drink."

"I want nothing, thanks," Logan declined, sitting behind the table and placing his satchel between his knees. "I have bad news for you, Overstreet."

"You were unsuccessful?"

"We were signally successful. We took Friole Flats without firing a shot. We recovered all the loot of the robberies."

THINGS OF THE SOIL

MORE ABOUT SUGAR MAPLES

After reading a recent article in this column about growing sugar maple trees, one of our regular farm readers writes the editor to ask three questions which should prove important to all readers. They are:

1. Is it advisable to plant sugar maple in the home grounds for shade trees?
2. Can this tree be grown for future sugar and sirup roles in orchards like apple and other fruit trees?
3. At what age is this tree old enough or large enough to tap?

Of course, in all three of these questions the writer has in mind the use of trees for producing sap for sugar and sirup manufacture.

Like most other hardwood species of maple, the sugar maple makes an excellent shade tree. It develops into a well rounded and spreading crown where it enjoys plenty of room. It thrives in the deeply mellow and fertile loam found in most lawns and along highways. However, it is not a poor-land tree and will not do well as a street tree or in other locations where the soil is hard and rooting space is limited.

Individual sugar maple trees in shade and ornamental roles usually produce sap in quantities comparable to trees growing under ideal forest conditions. Too, tapping does not in any manner impair the shade and ornamental merits of such specimens.

The advisability of planting sugar maple trees in solid blocks depends on several factors, prominent among which is the type of land. Usually this tree is found in native stands of timber or where small groups have been saved when forest land was originally cleared. But in all phases of planning sugar maple planting it is important to remember that trees should be located where a natural carpeting of leaves can be maintained. A liberally spread ground cover is necessary to promote tree health and a profitable flow of sap. For this reason it is never advisable to pasture forests where sugar maples are kept for tapping.

If the land is suited for growing timber trees it may be wise to interplant sugar maples with other desirable species and genera. Or sugar maples may be set into nooks throughout old woodlands where a leafmold is maintained. But this aim to give the tree an environment where the roots enjoy maximum sap-producing benefits should not deter potential growers from planting individual trees in the home grounds, along highways and fence rows and in other idle areas where leaf accumulations cannot be maintained.

The age at which a sugar maple tree can be tapped is difficult to determine. Better as a guide is the size of the tree. Most growers believe it is not injurious to tap a tree when it measures 6 inches in trunk diameter at waist height. In many cases earlier tapping has been practiced with no apparent harm resulting. Inasmuch as the tap hole is not made deeper than 1 1/2 to 2 inches, tree size need not be considered to obtain a fair yield of sap.

Readers are invited to write the editor to ask all the further questions they desire on this subject. A self-addressed stamped envelope will be appreciated.

EMPHASIS ON CROP YIELDS

Bordering closely on the unbelievable is the historical fact that the have a little company?"

"Day before yesterday?" Logan croaked hoarsely.

"Don't start fretting. I've been looking after your most urgent cases. You've had a mighty fine pair of nurses. Comely girls, too. But Judge Steele and Henry Barton want to talk to you. Feel up to it?"

Logan nodded. "Bring them in," he said in a weak voice.

grow this improved berry than has come to his desk since the fruit was introduced several years ago

Five facts are stressed for beginners who want to grow blueberries:

1. The soil must be acid—the plants will die in an alkaline soil.
2. At least two varieties should be grown near each other to provide proper cross-pollination.
3. Soil should be made ready before winter to facilitate early March planting.
4. Growers who plan to grow this fruit eventually on a commercial scale should start with a rather small planting to permit adjustment of soils and methods to the crop's requirements.
5. Prospective growers should write the editor to ask all the questions necessary to iron out all doubtful points before planting time arrives.

The improved blueberry—sometimes called huckleberry with a college education—is perhaps the most important contribution to civilized man's food crops ever attained. Other crops have come to us and these improved, such as the soybean for example. But the blueberry was carefully crossbred from the small native huckleberry and the result is a fruit so remarkably superior in size, texture and flavor that its resemblances to parent strains are but meager.

Most failures with this fruit to date can be traced to lack of acid soils. As persons who have picked native huckleberries will remember, these berries were always found in native forests and bogland where the soil was strongly acid from decades of decaying vegetation. The blueberry has inherited this trait. One of the best ways to render alkaline garden soils acid where blueberry plants are to set next spring is to substitute woods loam for the present soil or mix enough acid leafmold with the present soil to make it adequately acid. This should be done before winter.

Ornamental plant growers know and practice this in the culture of rhododendrons. They know this broadleaf evergreen requires acid soils, so they work leafmold from an old forest into the soil and thereafter mulch the shrub with oak leaves every year to maintain acidity.

Artificially alkaline soils may be made and kept acid for blueberries by applications of sulphur or aluminum sulphate. Both must be applied

York Springs—Mrs. Tatham Brown, formerly Miss Virginia A. Gise, has received word from her husband, who has been seeing extensive action in Korea, that he was recently promoted to first lieutenant and is recovering from his wound. Lieut. and Mrs. Brown recently became the parents of a daughter, Kathy Virginia.

Mrs. Harold A. Smith is convalescing at her home after a serious illness which kept her at the Warner hospital for about a month. Mrs. Smith was a hospital patient for most of last winter after she suffered a heart attack while driving her car.

William M. Lott, near here, remains under treatment for an injury to an eye which was struck by a pellet on the first day of the hunting season.

Mrs. Ida Hammond, Philadelphia, has been spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Ernest E. Kling, near here, who is recovering from a serious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Hershey, Pittsburgh, recently visited here and were joined by a number of friends and relatives, including their son, Capt. Charles G. Hershey, Jr., and family, Washington, D. C.

AWAITS OFFICIAL COUNT

Philadelphia, Nov. 11 (AP)—Maurice Osser, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 3rd district, will await the outcome of the official count of ballots next Tuesday to be sure the Republican incumbent, Hardie Scott, defeated him by 116 votes. A suit in behalf of Osser to impound registration commission records was dropped yesterday. The action came during argument before Judge Vincent A. Carroll in elections court.

CIVILIAN GOODS MAY BE SCARCE BY NEXT SPRING

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—Charles Sawyer, secretary of commerce says the full impact of rearmament may hit industry next spring.

Which means that by about that time civilians will begin to notice less civilian goods since industry will then be up to its neck in defense orders.

It's in Sawyer's Commerce Department that the National Production Authority (NPA) was set up some months ago.

It's NPA's job to tell industry when to cut down and how much on the use of steel or aluminum or anything else which might have gone into civilian goods but now is needed for defense.

You may have wondered: Since the government has been signing contracts with industry for months now under the defense program, why will it be next spring before the full impact of rearmament is felt?

Change Takes Time
For one thing industry needs time to tool up to carry out some of the contracts it already has. For another, as time passes, more defense contracts will be signed.

This is an example: An automobile plant which gets a contract for tanks can't switch over in one day from cars to tanks.

It has to get in new machinery, new tools, a lot of new everything. And that takes time, months in some items, before it can start production.

Already a great many rearmament contracts have been signed but they are only the first of many.

They'll pile up as the months pass, so that industry will be turning more of its output to armament.

Four Year Plan
So the experts in government seem to think that the full weight of all this will begin to show up in the spring.

Early this week at Sea Island, Ga., Secretary of Defense Marshall told a group of business men that the military people in his department

CASH TOWN INVITATION
The Cashtown Fire company today issued an invitation to all residents of the county to attend the Sparks club fire prevention demonstration to be held at the Cashtown Community fire hall Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Following the 45-minute fire prevention demonstration a 45-minute program of motion pictures showing safety measures on the highways will be presented by the local state police.

Prowler Supplies Cops With Mystery
Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 11 (AP)—Columbus police today had a new mystery to challenge arm-chair detectives.

The victim: Mrs. Jean Liggett. She told police an intruder entered her kitchen through an unlocked door yesterday and nearly stacked all the kitchen chairs upside down.

Then he balanced a teacup on each of the upturned legs—and vanished.

That's all there was to it. Nothing else was touched.

are drawing up a four-year program of military production.

Marshall was not ready to estimate how deeply the munitions effort will bite into civilian goods production.

But he told the business men this four-year program calls for a steady-rate of build-up.

Which means it will try to schedule military orders to industry in an even way to prevent temporary shutdowns or layoffs in industry.

Cost of Alaska, purchased by the U.S. from Russia in 1867, was about two cents an acre.

Board Of Bishops

Blasts Communism

Dayton, O., Nov. 11 (AP)—The Board of Bishops of the Episcopal United Brethren church was on record today with a 30-page blast which declares: "The church can have no part in communism."

The message was read last night before some 1,200 persons attending the opening sessions of the church's 37th general conference. Bishop John S. Stamm, of Harrisburg, Pa., delivered the message.

The bishop's message denounced communism as an ideology which would "rob men of their spiritual character and bring about class war, false economy and imperialism."

Of Communist peace plans, the message had this to say: "While the Communist leaders have much to say about peace, their proposals are an order of peace in terms of Communistic rule—a rule that denies the spiritual in the universe and in man."

New York, Nov. 11 (AP)—It looks as if the newest stage of the color controversy is to take it right out into the television channels.

This is evidenced by the promotion campaign CBS is starting next week for its FCC-approved system and by a counter move planned by Dumont.

These developments are coming up in New York almost simultaneously with the beginning in Chicago on Tuesday of injunction hearings started by RCA and others. RCA has a color system basically different from that of CBS.

CBS picked the same day to begin its series of daily public color demonstrations. Receivers in action will be mainly those at the CBS viewing post, a total of 10. However, a number of experimenters and the few manufacturers getting ready to make color converters and sets may have some other equipment available then or in an increasing amount later.

The tests, aimed solely at stirring up public interest, will continue even after the projected start on November 20 of regular color programs by CBS. These are to go on at times that will not conflict too much with the black and white schedule.

Pensions Available To War Vets' Widows

Widows of veterans of World War I Veterans, whose income is $1,000 or less a year are entitled to a pension of $42 a month from the Federal government, American Legion Service Officer Howard Straubach, Post No. 202, pointed out today.

Those widows with children under certain ages are entitled to extra compensation provided their income is not over $2,500 per year. Service by the veteran must have been between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918, and discharge or release from active duty must have been under other than dishonorable conditions after 90 days or more of military service.

For the purpose of a pension a widow must have been married to a World War I veteran before December 14, 1944, or 10 or more years to the person who served, or must not have remarried.

ASK BIDS FOR ADDITION TO HS

The architect's drawings and specifications for the new Emmitsburg high school addition have been completed and advertising for bids is underway.

Mrs. Louis Rosensteel and Mrs. Laura Rosensteel attended the American Legion district meeting at Westminster.

The Legion Auxiliary of the Francis X. Elders Post, 121, Emmitsburg, will hold a food and rummage sale Saturday, December 2.

The Nov. meeting of the Legion Auxiliary was held Wednesday, November 8, in the post home, North Seton avenue. A new electric refrigerator was given to the home by the auxiliary and it was installed in the kitchen this week.

Mrs. Louis Rosensteel, announced that the organization has 69 members and that the goal for the auxiliary was 84 by the end of this year. The auxiliary will hold another "corn" game in the basement of the home Saturday night, November 18, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Austin Nusbbaum visited Mr. and Mrs. William Nusbbaum, her father and mother-in-law at Union Bridge the beginning of this week.

Mrs. Nusbbaum has moved to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Flax, East Main street, since her husband has been called into active military service.

The Sadie Hawkins dance by the St. Joseph's high school alumni association was a success Tuesday night. There was a good attendance with music by the Gene Frock orchestra, Doris Olinger and Hazel Glacken won prizes for their Daisy Mae and Lil Abner impersonations.

George Greco took the door prize. The Missionary society of the Presbyterian church met Friday 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. David Martin, East Main street.

George McDonnell was admitted to the Gettysburg hospital for the removal of his tonsils Tuesday and discharged Wednesday.

Charles Valentini, admitted to the Gettysburg hospital early this week with pneumonia is recovering rapidly.

Yugoslavs Seal Albanian Legation

Belgrade, Nov. 11 (AP)—Yugoslavia closed and sealed the Albanian legation here today in a move just one step short of breaking off diplomatic relations between the two countries.

A note containing the decision of Premier Marshal Tito's government was handed to a representative of its tiny, isolated, Mediterranean neighbor, and its contents were disclosed by the ministry of information here.

In blunt, stern, language, the note charged Albania has been using its legation in Belgrade not for the conduct of current affairs and for the settlement of existing issues between the two governments, but has utilized its existence exclusively for the purposes of conducting offending and provocative activities against Yugoslavia and its authorities.

Won't Close Down Embassy In Prague

Washington, Nov. 11 (AP)—The United States was reported ready today to continue a state of "stabilized hostility" with Communist-run Czechoslovakia rather than close down its embassy in Prague.

This attitude was revealed by diplomatic sources discussing the recent recall by the State department of Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs. Briggs is now in the midst of conferences on conditions in Czechoslovakia and problems of running the embassy with a staff trimmed this year on Communist orders to one-sixth its former size.

He is expected to return to Prague in about two weeks.

Only 13 Americans are left out of 80 who were in the embassy when the Czech regime made wholesale charges of "spying" and demanded expulsion of a number of staff members. Czech consulates in the U.S. were closed down in retaliation for these expulsions.

This year several new practices can be approved including construction of erosion-control dams to prevent or heal the gullying of farmland and work on improving stands of forest trees.

The program of establishing sod in orchards to protect against erosion, for which $5 per acre is paid, was originated by the Adams county PMA committee several years ago and has remained as part of the state wide plan ever since, Chairman Walter noted.

Other "cash practices" offered this year remain the same as last year when $147,000 was divided among some 1,600 county farmers who took part in the program.
